RALPH MCGILL Post-Mortems And a Post

In a moment we will get around to a poet. Meanwhile, to be sure—

The second guesses of the Monday morning political quarterbacks on the Republican side are amusing. Mr. Leonard Hall, the National GOP chairman, says the fact that Democrats took over control of the House and Senate and also ousted seven Republican governors is indicative of nothing at all. It was, he said, soothingly, too spotty to have meaning. Had the reverse been true, Mr. Hall would have been turning handsprings on every television screen in the nation and claiming a thundering mandate.

Now, before the poet, a post-mortem or so.

Two really fine things happened in the election. In Illinois the Democrats offered for the United States Senate one of the relatively few men in that august body who has sought to live up to the full responsibility of the job. This has made his stature almost as big as the office itself. This was Paul Douglas. The Republicans, making Douglas one of their chief targets, nominated a handsomely professional lobbyist with a certain popularity. The people of Illinois gave Paul Douglas a margin of more than a quarter million.

Rebuke

In New Jersey two fine men ran for the Senate, the Democrat Charles R. Howell and the Republican Clifford Case. The Democrat was a heavy favorite because Joe McCarthy had smeared Case and had publicly renounced him. In New Jersey, the hard core of Republicans, who follow McCarthy, openly fought Case. They stooped, even, to a false "Red" charge against Case's sister. Since the American people are inherently decent, and since more and more of them have discovered what McCarthy and his followers really are, there was a great outpouring of support for Candidate Case.

As a matter of fact, perhaps the outstanding healthy feature of the election was a negative one. It was the failure of the Republican high command strategy, with Vice President Nixon as its mouthpiece, in an insincere effort to persuade the American people that communism would take over if the Democrats won control of the Congress or regained any political influence. In some states the attack was direct as in, for example, Wyoming. There the "Red" charge was flung directly at Joseph O'Mahoney, a man who unquestionably is a man of high ability and character. A former senator who has been sorely missed in Washington and national affairs, the people of Wyoming knew he was no more a Communist than, say, Vice President Nixon. So they elected Joe C. Mahoney.

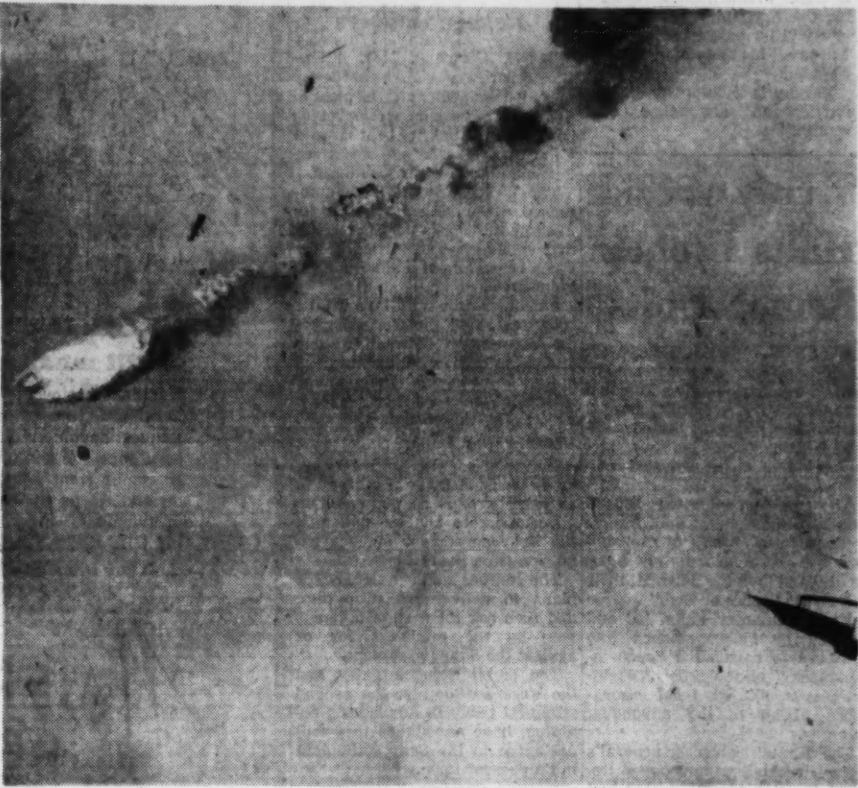

Florida

There was one post-mortem which has a humorous, but typically American flavor. Great population growth in Florida has brought many Republicans there, especially in the areas of Miami, St. Petersburg, Tampa, Bradenton and Sarasota.

St. Petersburg resident William C. Cramer, Howard Law School graduate, was elected as Florida's first Republican congressman since Reconstruction Days. He defeated incumbent Courtney Campbell.

In Florida they told me that a causeway once named for its builder, Davis, was changed to the Courtney Campbell Causeway with a big brass plaque at each end so testifying. A lot of people didn't like it. GOP Cramer won by 1,800 votes.

Now for the poet. Walt Whitman had a song about America, vast and free. He sang of her valleys and mountains, her valleys and seas, but more especially of her continual change and feeling for humanity. He was right. We must keep on rebuilding America on the foundation of our Constitution. We must build President Eisenhower's $50,000,000,000 system of highways. We must work toward his dream of a $500,000,000,000 national income. We must continually remake America because her dreams must always come true for us to be healthy.

NAVY JET SEAPLANE EXPLODING OVER SAN DIEGO HARBOR
Ball of Flame Marks Engines as Nose Part Falls at Lower Right

New Sea Jet Explodes in Public Test

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 4 (AP). The Navy's revolutionary new seaplane fighter, the XF2Y Seadart, exploded in the air today while being put through its first public demonstration.

The supersonic seaplane had just taken off when witnesses dotting the shore of San Diego Bay saw it quiver and then disintegrate with a roaring blast.

The pilot, Charles E. Richbourg of San Diego, was killed instantly. Crash boats standing by raced to the scene of the crashing wreckage and pulled his body from the water within two minutes.

Richbourg had made a smooth takeoff from the surface of the bay and was passing over the water at about 300 feet when a gasp went up from the crowd as the plane suddenly burst into flame, disintegrated and the wreckage fell into the water.

The delta-winged plane crashed only a few miles from where it was built at the Convair plant here.

Richbourg is survived by his wife and two children. He was a Navy fighter and ferry pilot in World War II.

The Seadart had a speed of more than 700 miles per hour.

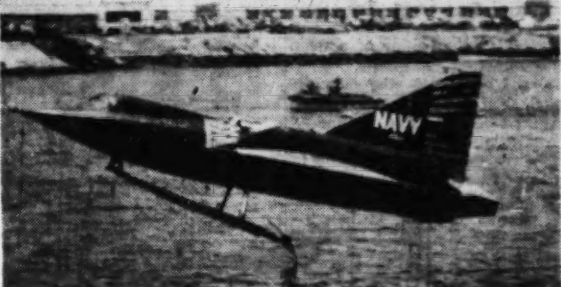

Cold Weather Due To Trail Full Inch of Rainfall Here

Cold weather will follow Thursday's soaking rain in the Atlanta area, the weatherman predicts.

Forecast for Atlanta and North Georgia Friday night is fair and cold. Saturday is expected to be fair and cool.

The Atlanta Weather Bureau reported that Thursday's rain in Atlanta measured approximately an inch, the most the area has received in more than two months. Less than half an inch was recorded during all of September and October.

Temperatures in the Atlanta area are expected to range from

Dixon-Yates Pact Hit And Lauded at Hearing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Democrats, armed by Tuesday's election with control of Congress, opened a new attack today on the administration's proposal to feed private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority.

With suggestions that the proposed Dixon-Yates contract go over for the new Congress to consider, the Democrats questioned the administration's official for quick action to get a start on the private power plan and avoid a power shortage.

Administration officials described the contract as in the public interest, a good example of how free enterprise works and "entirely fair as a business proposition for the government."

They appeared before the joint congressional committee on Atomic Energy which the administration has asked to waive the statutory requirement that the proposal lay before the committee 30 days while Congress is in session.

The first day of the committee's hearings developed these highlights:

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, New Mexico Democrat who won reelection, charged a "loophole" in the contract would permit private Southern utilities to get the proposed steam plant constructed without "putting up one thin dime." The Dixon-Yates group, he said, could reclaim its $5,500,000 investment by making a cost-plus contract with a subsidiary for constructing the plant and retiring the investment from the profits. Anderson may be the new committee chairman under Democratic control of Congress.

Att. Gen. Brownell held, in a formal opinion, that the authority of the Atomic Energy Commission to execute the 25-year contract "cannot be questioned." He also held that federal income taxes may be included in computation of power rates and costs. His opinion was based on amendments to the atomic energy law.

Brownell was backed by Acting Comptroller General Frank Weitzel, who also asserted that revision of atomic law authorized the Dixon-Yates arrangement on

Sheppard sobbed bitterly late today during projection of vivid color slides of his wife's head on a morgue slab.

Sheppard was not forced to look at the color slides. They outlined to the jury in every horrid detail the battering that left a once attractive woman with blackened eyes, a broken nose, and bone deep gashes that all but pulverized her skull.

Instead, he sat behind the screen as Dr. Lester Adelson, a

Negro Suit On Schools Is Delayed

'Study Needed' Following Vote

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Negroes who have a segregation suit pending against the City of Atlanta school system will have to make an "exhaustive study" before proceeding with the petition, A. T. Walden said Thursday night in commenting on passage of the private school amendment.

The amendment is designed to make it possible for Georgia to change from a public to a private school system in event the federal courts should order integration in Georgia public schools.

ORIGINAL DELAY

The Atlanta Negro attorney and political figure said, the suit in federal district court here had been delayed originally until the United States Supreme Court rendered a final decision in the South Carolina case. The high court has additional hearings on the cases from South Carolina and four other states (not including Georgia) for December.

"I don't think passage of the amendment will have any ultimate effect on the pending suit involving Atlanta," Walden said. "However, so many changes have taken place since the filing of the suit, that we will have to amend the petition."

WILL RECONSIDER

Walden said they would have to "reconsider the whole situation" and make an "exhaustive study."

Meanwhile, Durwood Pye, secretary of the Georgia Commission on Education, predicted it may be years before private school legislation becomes necessary.

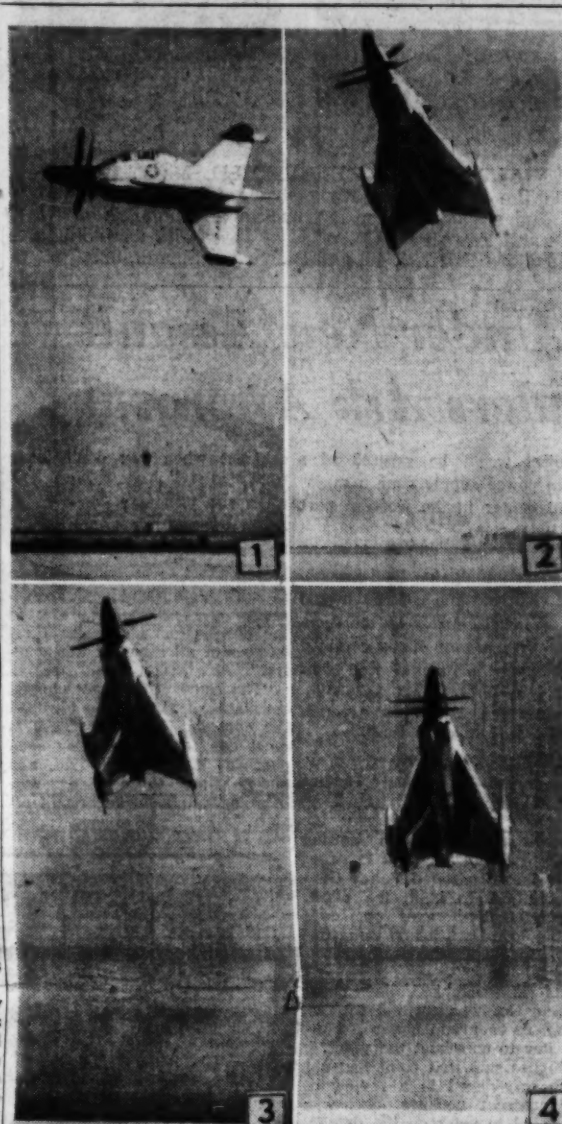

He said he, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook and commission counsel B. D. Murphy are drafting bills to strengthen the present free, segregated public school system—in accordance with recommendations of the full commission Sept. 19.

These bills will be keynoted by a pupil assignment plan, such as was suggested by gubernatorial candidate Charlie Gowan. When Gowan made his suggestion to the commission, however, he was given a rough time by proponents of the private school plan.

Pye said Thursday that the fact that Georgia now has the amendment would discourage any tests on segregation. He said it isn't

George Due For Senate Pro Tempore

Condensed From Wire Reports
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Democratic congressional leaders, after winning a razor-thin majority in Tuesday's election, Thursday set about planning a legislative program and settling committee chairmanships for the 84th Congress.

Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia, dean of the Senate, probably will be president pro tempore, the officer who presides in the absence of the vice president.

George told The Constitution by telephone from his home in Vienna that he will not seek the position, pointing out the selection is up to a party caucus. But custom virtually assures that the Georgia senator will be named.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who will be majority leader in the new Congress, said Thursday his party will meet Eisenhower "more than half way," but Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, who will be House speaker, was more cautious.

Rayburn had only this to say for the outlook of the legislative program the President will propose next year:

"I don't know yet what the program is." But he added the Democrats were "not going to follow the mean example of the Republicans in hating a man just because he is President and in the other party."

Democratic control of the Senate by one seat became evident only after Richard L. Neuberger came from behind to wrest Oregon's Senate seat from incumbent Republican Sen. Guy Cordon.

FINAL OREGON RETURNS

Final unofficial returns from Oregon gave Neuberger a margin of 2,166 votes. The totals, which are subject to a recount, stood Thursday at Neuberger 284,378 and Cordon 282,212.

If no results from Tuesday's elections are overturned by recounts, the Senate lineup will

Fishing, Hunt Approved for N. Georgia

Gov. Talmadge Thursday issued an executive order opening fishing and hunting in the Seventh and Ninth Congressional Districts and allowing the 20-day deer hunt in 11 mountain counties to open on schedule at dawn Friday.

The governor, however, kept in force his ban on hunting and bank-fishing in the other eight congressional districts until the drought-born fire emergency is past.

More than an inch of rain spread rather evenly over north Georgia brought recommendation from U.S. and state foresters to relax the hunting and fishing ban.

The counties forming the southern boundary of the area now open to seasonal hunting are, from west to east, Haralson, Paulding, Douglas, Cobb, Cherokee, Forsyth, Gwinnett, Barrow, Banks, Jackson and Stephens. All of the state north of this line now is open to hunting.

Rayburn Warns GOP Of Firings Showdown

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Speaker-Designate Sam Rayburn said today leaders of the new Democratic-controlled 84th Congress will demand that the Republicans "put up or shut up" on their claims of mass dismissals of federal security risks.

The Texas Democrat obviously was irritated by GOP charges, both before and during the election campaign, that large numbers of holdovers from past Democratic administrations had been fired as Communists or other security risks.

Rayburn, whose election as House speaker was assured by the Democratic victory Tuesday, said in a telephone interview from his home in Bonham, Tex., that the Democrats will make the Republicans "lay it on the line on who they've fired and for what."

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), who is in line to become chairman of the House Judiciary Committee again, joined Rayburn in calling for an inquiry into Republican campaign charges on

Fight Over Sheppard's Other Loves Led to Wife's Slaying, Jury Told

CLEVELAND, Nov. 4 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard today heard the state of Ohio label him a philandering wife-slayer. The prosecutor pointed an accusing finger straight at him from five feet away.

The defense retorted that Sheppard "possessed a gentle nature. . . . There was tenderness in the love Sam Sheppard had for his wife, Marilyn."

And his lawyers said the handsome 30-year-old osteopath sobbed subconsciously after his wife's death:

"I tried to get to Marilyn. I tried to get to Marilyn. I tried to get to Marilyn."

Sheppard claimed he was knocked unconscious when he tried to prevent a bushy haired stranger deputy county coroner, explained the injuries with a pointer. Sheppard put his right hand to his eyes, his shoulders shook and he sobbed inaudibly but visibly throughout the gruesome performance in the semi-darkened courtroom.

Dr. Adelson was the first witness in Sheppard's trial that began Oct. 18. He testified for the state that the murdered woman died of a crushed skull. He undergoes cross-examination tomorrow.

Asst. Prosecutor John J. Mahon, in a 64-minute opening statement, told the jury of seven men and five women:

JAILED IN $1,000 BAIL ON LOTTERY CHARGES
Miss Louise Brown, 19, Arrested With Two Others

3 Women, 'Bug' Slips Seized in Swank Flat

Federal, DeKalb and Fulton law officers raided a fashionable Briarcliff road apartment Thursday and arrested three women, including a 19-year-old woman who could have doubled for a movie starlet, on charges of operating a lottery.

DeKalb Sheriff Robert K. Broome said he and other officers found lottery tickets dated Thursday under a mattress and bundles of older tickets in a cedar chest.

Jailed in DeKalb and placed under $1,000 bond each were Louise Brown, 18, and Mrs. Miller G. Bayne, 32, of 1168 Briarcliff Rd. NE, and Sallie Mae Luke, 40, Negro, of 452 Whitehall Terrace.

Broome said he and other officers, a federal agent and George Carter of Fulton Criminal Sol. John I. Kelley's office raided the apartment on a tip. Equipment seized included, an electric adding machine, adding machine tapes, and a sack containing between 300 and 500 "bug" slips.

The youngest woman is an attractive, brown-eyed brunette with close-cropped, curly hair. The two white women said the Negro woman was their maid.

Both white women were well-dressed when they were booked at the DeKalb jail by Chief Deputy Lamar Martin and Deputy Pat Needham.

AEC chairman, said the contract was negotiated at "arm's length" and that he had "never done any business of any nature directly or indirectly" with the private companies or their principal officers. He asserted "there was no guarantee of any percentage returns on the equity" of the investors.

CONTRACT DEVELOPED

Rowland Hughes, director of the Bureau of the Budget, said the contract developed from a desire to assure TVA of an adequate supply of power to meet increasing demands and give the administration time for further study to avoid committing "us to a policy of establishing a nationwide federal power monopoly."

Sen. John O. Pastore, Rhode Island Democrat, suggested that Congress might well review the contract for 30 days after it reconvenes Jan. 5. At one point, he asked Hughes whether he was worried about the weather conditions that might delay the plant or the "breakup that may occur as a result of the next Congress coming in here?"

The contract provides for Middle South Utilities, Inc., and the Southern Co. to construct the $107,250,000 steam plant at West Memphis, Ark. Some 600,000 kilowatts of power from the plant will be fed across the Mississippi River into the TVA system. This amount will "replace" a similar amount now being supplied by TVA to the atomic installation at Paducah, Ky.

ALTERNATIVE PLAN

It was developed by the administration as an alternative to a TVA plan to build a $100,000,000 steam plant at Fulton, Tenn. The administration cited economy and pressure on the national debt ceiling as major reasons for the private proposal.

The proposal takes its name from Edgar A. Dixon, president of Middle South, and Eugene Yates, chairman of the Southern Co. They attended the hearing. Neither have testified in congressional hearings on the disputed contract that was injected into the congressional campaign. Democrats claimed it was a major factor in the victory of state Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, Democrat, upsetting Sen. Guy Cordon, Republican, in Oregon, to give the Democrats a slim control of the Senate. Cordon is a member of the joint committee but was absent.

MADE PUBLIC

The administration made public for the first time the proposed contract. It was released as Maj. Gen. Kenneth D. Nichols, AEC general manager took the stand, although its details have been known for some time.

All witnesses were sworn in at the hearing that attracted a large crowd to the old Supreme Court chamber in the Capitol building. Thirteen members of the 18-man committee were present, seven Republicans and six Democrats.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole, New York Republican, presided as chairman. Absent besides Cordon were senators Edwin C. Johnson, who was elected governor of Colorado, Eugene Millikin, Colorado Republican, and Richard B. Russell, Georgia Democrat, and Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Ohio Republican.

FAMILIAR HISTORY

Adm. Strauss reiterated to the committee the familiar history of the contract development, starting Dec. 2, 1953. He also said he wished to correct some "misunderstandings and misinterpretations" and denied that the AEC would be compelled to pay excessively high rates for power.

The TVA system, he said, would be "strengthened" under the contract "because the valley project would be assured of a firm power supply near a major lead center in the western part of its system.

This, he said, will enable TVA to meet anticipated load growth. He also said the contract would be financed entirely by the sponsors with private funds obtained from private capital and that the contractors must bear "increases in cost of construction above a fixed estimate."

QUESTIONS HUGHES

Anderson questioned Hughes on whether there was anything in the contract to prevent the Dixon-Yates group from "getting a cost-plus 10 per cent contract from the Mississippi Valley Generating Co. to build the plant, paying federal taxes on some $10,000,000 of profit and using the rest to get their $5,500,000 (equity) back?"

The Mississippi Valley Generating Co. was formed by the Dixon-Yates group under Arkansas law to construct the plant. Hughes said that point had not been considered in a review of the contract because AEC was expected to work on the details. Pressed by Anderson, Hughes asserted: "I can't be expected to check over every little item in the contract. We have people to do that. If we had to, we'd have more people in the government than we have now."

NO CLAUSE

Francis L. Adams, chief of the power branch of the Federal Power Commission and a consultant on the contract, said he knew of no specific clause to bar the procedure suggested by Anderson, but added: "I do feel and believe that they (Dixon-Yates) intended to do the job themselves." Anderson replied that "intent is not enough for a business contract."

Anderson also questioned whether the contract provided for a scheduled date by which the plant must be completed and whether there would be a penalty for failing to meet the date.

When Hughes asked several times that Gen. Nichols and others answer "technical" details, Anderson asked tartly: "How can you say it is a good

Unity Since 1946

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 4

AP—The U. N. General Assembly late today unanimously approved new closed-door talks on disarmament and prohibition of atomic weapons. The project was backed by the Western powers and Russia in their first unanimous action on disarmament since 1946.

Delegates of East and West agreed that the negotiators on disarmament, who are expected to resume their tasks in a few weeks, will face great obstacles.

The 60-nation Assembly approved a resolution providing for a subcommittee made up of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union.

James J. Wadsworth, U. S. delegate, told the Assembly before the vote that his country is satisfied with the unanimity but warned that, "We have a long and difficult road to travel."

SOVIET STAND

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, said the Soviet delegation attaches "serious significance" to the fact that the resolution was sponsored by the five powers and that it got unanimous support.

The resolution approved by the assembly calls for a further effort to be made to reach agreement on proposals to be included in an international disarmament convention providing for:

1. Regulation, limitation and major reduction of all armed forces and all conventional armaments.

TOTAL PROHIBITION

2. Total prohibition of the use and manufacture of nuclear weapons and weapons of mass destruction of every type, together with the conversion of existing stocks of nuclear weapons for peaceful purposes.

3. Establishment of effective international control through a control organ with rights and powers adequate to guarantee the effective observance of reduction of all armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons.

'Army of God' Halts French Armor Units

ALGERS, Algeria, Nov. 4 AP—A Nationalist rebel "army of God," reinforced by Tunisian outlaws, today held off attacks on two key points in the east Algerian mountains by two air-supported French armored columns.

The trouble center was 500,000 acres of mountains and forests some 60 miles south of Constantine where approximately 1,000 local bandits have formed their self-styled "army of God."

French infantry units, led and flanked by tanks, slashed into the area to smash the "open insurrection" of the rebels. Fighter planes strafed rebel strongholds ahead of the advancing infantry.

The French governor-general's office in Algiers announced tonight that the French forces had "liberated" the mountain town of Foun Toub and the provincial center of Arris.

But the rebels still held the strategic Portes de Fer (iron gateway) region and the town of El-Oujla in the center of a deep pine forest.

They beat off the double-pronged attack by the two French armored columns and weathered the strafing of the planes.

The rebels have been reinforced by outlaws from across the border in neighboring Tunisia. In the Portes de Fer region the outlaws are dug in on mountain peaks. Sharpshooters pick off ground column members trying to move on towns in the area.

Saar Treaty Okay Is Plea Of Adenauer

Rebel Ministers

BONN, Germany, Nov. 4 AP—

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today appealed for public endorsement of the French-German agreement on the Saar in a fight to beat down a Cabinet revolt over the Paris settlement on the rich coal basin.

The West German leader summoned a Cabinet meeting for tomorrow to discuss the Saar crisis that endangers ratification of the Paris rearmament and sovereignty treaties.

Adenauer, in a nationwide broadcast, told the German people cooperation between France and Germany is vital to European unity. It was his first public statement since returning from a visit to the United States.

ULTIMATUM LOOMS

Informed sources said Adenauer is considering an ultimatum to rebel groups in his coalition government to knuckle under on the Saar agreement or face expulsion from the Cabinet.

The sources said the Chancellor plans to deliver his ultimatum and then ask for a show-of-hands vote by the ministers for or against the Saar agreement.

The small Refugee party and the Free Democrats, the second strongest party in Adenauer's coalition, have announced they will not agree to the Saar settlement in its present form.

SUFFERS STRAIN

The rightist German party has not adopted a firm position. The Chancellor's voice sounded tired and weak in his radio address tonight. He appeared to be suffering from the strain of the American trip and the political struggle into which he was plunged upon his return to Bonn. The Franco-German agreement won the guarantees of "democratic freedoms" for the Saar population which the West German Parliament demanded, Adenauer said.

Governorships Are Significant for '56

Possessing almost equal significance with the Democratic victories which gave the party control of the House and Senate, is the fact that seven Republican governors were upended and replaced by Democrats in last Tuesday's balloting. Maine voters earlier had done the same thing.

It was GOP Statehouse victories in 1950 which added to the effectiveness of the 1952 Republican presidential and congressional campaigns. A Democrat will occupy the governor's mansion in 27 of the 48 states after Jan. 1. This will enable them to throw their state organizations into the 1956 struggle to regain the White House. Meanwhile, they will fill any vacancies that occur in Congress.

Adlai Stevenson emerges from the election with greatly increased prestige because of the Illinois results. He did most of his campaigning there in behalf of Sen. Paul Douglas. His next most strenuous effort was in behalf of Averell Harriman in New York. Douglas won by more than a quarter of a million votes and Harriman astonished one and all by gaining a 11,000 majority over the long-entrenched Dewey machine.

Americans may as well be prepared for a lot of politics between now and November of 1956. The Democrats have come a long way on the path back to the White House on Pennsylvania Avenue. Those 27 governorships, especially the eight won from Republicans, will be a lot of help.

It's Sen. Barkley Again And the Nation Approves

Even though his opponent was worthy and able, most people will applaud the election of Kentucky's Alben W. Barkley to the U.S. Senate. The venerable ex-vice president holds a secure place in the hearts of the American people, be they Democrat or Republican.

Few people have remained in public life as long as has Mr. Barkley while retaining almost universal respect and affection. He has been in public life for 47 years, 22 of them in the Senate. He now returns to the latter after having served in the second-highest office in the land.

The Kentuckian is the fourth former vice president to be returned to the Senate. The others were John C. Calhoun, John C. Breckenridge and Hannibal Hamlin.

Mr. Barkley has served his state well. He has served the nation in the best spirit of statesmanship. Passed over for the presidency on several occasions, he remains first and last a loyal Democrat. In fact, he is being described as "Mr. Democrat" today.

At 76, Sen.-elect Barkley is still going strong. He has much to contribute to the new Congress—years of experience, sound judgment, integrity and good humor.

Installment Collectors Will Be Around Awhile

It looks like the installment bill collector will be around for a long time, thanks to the dynamic character of American business.

If you, for instance, have ideas that your new refrigerator, television set and other appliances are simply the last word, you've figured without considering the nation's laboratories and electric appliance manufacturers. They're simply the bridge to something better. By the time they're paid for, they're obsolete.

As long as free and unrestricted enterprise promotes it, there'll always be something new in the offing to compete for the consumer's dollar.

In a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal, some hints of things to come sound fantastic. But they're on the way and new household revolutions are in the making.

Among things soon to be on the market will be a cleaning machine which washes and dries a floor in one operation; an electric incinerator built into the sink; a heating unit built into the dining room table to keep food warm; a cordless electric clock; double-faced refrigerators, and many, many others.

The trend in kitchens is back to the days of our rural forefathers, when it was a living area enjoyed by the entire family.

Yes sir, manufacturers, department stores and salesmen have been cooking up a lot of new things for us. The idea is to come up with new products, better products all the time. They mean sales, jobs, profits and more ease for the housewife. They also mean more installment payments for the old man.

There's one polite question, however, that needs to be answered. Labor-saving devices are wonderful, but what happens when you have more labor-savers than there are people in the family to operate them? It's heresy, of course, but the query really does need some attention.

It Is a Rare Man Who Lives the Golden Rule

At the time of the First World War, a successful businessman looked out of his window to see three confused girls standing on the corner. They had come to Atlanta to look for work, and had no place to live.

His name was John A. Manget, and as a result of that chance look came the Churches Homes for Girls. Atlanta then as now was a mecca for young folk from smaller towns, and as often as not they found the city a fearsome and unfriendly place.

Mr. Manget, who was born in the small town of Talbotton himself, got a group of his friends together and they underwrote the rental of a house on Spring Street. Working girls could find board and lodging there at nominal cost. There also was proper chaperonage and the same kind of moral atmosphere the girls had been accustomed to at home. From that little beginning grew the Churches Homes for Girls, big residences given up by their owners, and large apartment buildings converted into clubs for young working girls. Thousands on thousands of young women have found these homes a refuge and a consolation until they are able to establish themselves in Atlanta.

Mr. Manget died this week, full of years and honors. He will be mourned by many for through the Churches Homes he was literally a foster parent to thousands.

The Solid South Cracks Again in Fannin County

At a time when Democrats are wearing smiles, it was somewhat startling to come upon two of the saddest members of the party a man ever saw.

They were the Hon. Hoke Willis and the Hon. Stanley Daves, of Fannin County.

Mr. Daves had been a candidate Tuesday for the state Legislature as the Democratic nominee.

Turns out, so they say, Fannin Democrats were lucky to be allowed on the courthouse lawn. The Republicans just didn't allow them near the place where the ballots were being cast.

The tales they tell are horrible. The Hon. Mr. Daves and the Hon. Hoke Willis made the general election laws in Georgia tightened up to protect the Fannin County Democrats. They want the law to require that both parties be represented on the election board instead of leaving the choice in the hands of the ordinary alone.

As a Republican empire, Fannin County has been neglected in song and story. Too few persons noted that in 1836 when only Maine and Vermont went for Alf Landon, Fannin County, in the Deep South, joined them.

Maybe the Legislature ought to help out the embattled and outnumbered Fannin Democrats. It was distressing to see Messrs. Willis and Daves looking so sad at a time when all other Democrats are happy.

In a Literate Society No Censors Are Required

Some of England's finest contemporary writers have joined forces in a protest against censorship.

They include Bertrand Russell, J. B. Priestly and Somerset Maugham. They contend that current British court prosecutions of authors for obscenity constitute a police censorship of literature and a threat not only to good writing but to freedom of expression.

The writers carefully made the point that obscenity for obscenity's sake is not to be condoned. But at the same time they said that adults were entitled to read of life as it actually is, and not as some fanatic thinks it should be.

A censor's task is troublesome in a land where the rights of an individual command respect. And an honest censor must occasionally reproach himself with the sin of presumption.

What is strong meat to some may be pap to others. And if the intelligence of the censor is below that of the average reader—which it often seems to be—there is danger of a completely tasteless literary diet and an increasingly sterile intellectual climate.

Censorship is one of the most effective tools of dictatorial governments and institutions. Ideally, it has no place in a community of free men where literacy and public good taste should set the standards.

Rome Reader Disputes High Court Right To Nullify the Acts of Congress or States

Rome—Miss Marguerite Biggs quotes Dr. Newton Edwards as saying "the Supreme Court of the United States exercises the right to review the economic and social legislation of the states and to determine whether the objects to be accomplished and the manner of their accomplishment are reasonably necessary to promote the public welfare."

This is a true statement. The Supreme Court does exercise that right and it does so in violation of our federal Constitution. Our Constitution specifically states that "all legislative powers granted herein shall be vested in a Congress of the United States." Yet the Supreme Court constantly assumes the powers of a super-legislature.

Our Constitution does not grant the Supreme Court the power to nullify acts of Congress or the states. The court exercises that power without authority. Do the people really want government by judicial oligarchy, or by elected representatives as set up in our organic law?

Mrs. Blitch Advised To Find Boundary

Atlanta—In a local telecast Mrs. Iris Blitch, in discussing the problem of segregation, made the statement that "she was perfectly amazed to hear the state of Delaware referred to as a Southern state."

Before going to Washington as a congresswoman, it might save Mrs. Blitch and the people of Georgia a bit of embarrassment if she would acquaint herself with the location of a mythical line established many years ago as the division between the North and South and known as the Mason-Dixon Line.

Baldy's Cartoons Held 'Best in the Country'

Atlanta—The cartoons by Baldy on your editorial page each day are as fine as I've seen anywhere in this country. His ingenuity in depicting current events is unexcelled and in discussing his cartoons with others all agree there are no better cartoonists in the country than he. My family and I get a lot of pleasure from your paper and especially from Baldy's cartoons.

Stamina of Youth Warms His Heart

Cairo—The stamina and the stability of the young make the heart warm! A preacher comes up to say that one of my younger Sunday school teachers was at a party 500 miles away on a recent Saturday night and insisted on flying home, arriving at 4 a.m. so she could be present and teach her class as usual at 9:30 a.m.

You can't tell me the youngsters are going to the dogs! W. CLYDE ELMORE.

Doctor's Cures Were 'Magical'

LUMPKIN—The stranger who comes to the county seat of Stewart County had better carry his credentials. The incredulity of Lumpkinites goes back to right after World War II. The town needed a doctor and doctors were hard to come by. When a personable young fellow came by saying he was one, the town people went all out to help him find a place to hang up his shingle.

He practiced for about a month, shooting folks full of pills and penicillin. Meanwhile, a suspicion, which started as a trickle, was growing like the gully at Providence Canyon. A delegation confronted the new "doc" and demanded that he show proof. The only document he could pull was a membership card in the Magicians Union.

They haven't seen him in Lumpkin since.

STRICTLY STEWART COUNTY: Rita (Mrs. Larry) Castleberry is a native of Arizona who came to Georgia only a few months ago. She feels right at home on the east bank of the Chattahoochee, a contributing factor being the drought. From one desert to another, she's saying of the move. . . (I think it was Asbury Baldwin, the druggist at Madison, who predicted rain as soon as a Democrat victory last Tuesday was assured by the count.) In mentioning Preacher Brown in Lumpkin, be sure to the Methodist; and the Rev. J. E. Brown is pastor of the Baptist Church; the Rev. R. E. Brown, of the Methodist; and the Rev. J. E. of the Negro Baptist. . . L. M. (Red) Moye is the only officially designated "Tree Farmer" in Stewart County. He has 2,500 acres sowed to pines. Was a time when he was editor of The Yellow Jacket at Georgia Tech. "Red" Moye, Bill Hammack and Will Johnson grew up together and went to high school together at Cuthbert. "Red" went to Tech and edited the campus paper. Bill Hammack, now of The Journal-Constitution Magazine staff, went to Georgia and helped put out The Pandora. Will Johnson edited the school paper at Mercer.

ALSO SHORT SUBJECTS: Ralph Clark of LaGrange thinks Attos Menaboni of Georgia is better than Audubon when it comes to painting birds. The Menaboni paintings have been on exhibit at Ida Cason Gardens this week. . . Marion Roberts, who shares an insurance office with Mr. Clark, calls attention to an item from his hometown paper—Cedartown, that is—saying, "The foremost advantage of the rain (dust showers) was in settling the dust and lifting the morals of farmers. . . That may have been no typographical error. A dry spell can indeed lower a farmer's morals as well as his morale—drive him to drink and all that sort of thing."

Church Is Evidence Of Divine Presence

Yesterday I wrote of a friend who came to me with the question, "Do you believe in the second coming of Christ?" I told him something of the basis for the traditional Christian affirmation in the second advent of Christ. His return to establish on earth His Kingdom of peace. And I suggested that the setting of specific times and seasons for the return of Christ is beyond the determination of man.

God in His divine providence spoke to man through the Incarnation of Christ at Bethlehem. God in His providence will speak through a Second Advent or in any other manner He may choose and at the time and season of His appointing.

The early Christians who anticipated the immediate and visible return of Christ in glory were disappointed, for they had based their hope in Christ's words: "I will not leave you comfortless: I will come to you" (John 14:18) and in such words from the Epistles as these: "The coming of the Lord draweth nigh" (James 5:8).

Yet Christ, who first came in a manner differing from that which man had anticipated, has already returned to the world in more marvelous manners than we sometimes appreciate.

At Pentecost the faith of men in the gospel of Christ was vindicated by the descent of the Holy Spirit, and 3,000 persons became baptized believers. So great a demonstration of the power of God to move the hearts of men is surely a testimony of the enduring presence of Christ in the world.

The Church of Christ, one of the great marvels of human history and surely a wonder which cannot be explained entirely in human terms, is an evidence of the power of Christ to work through men of good will and through institutions dedicated to God's Kingdom.

And does not Christ return to the world through the lives of every man who surrenders his will and energy to the Way of Christ, who becomes, as it is sometimes expressed, little Christs who do God's work as God gives them strength and direction?

The audacity of faith in a world of sorrow and sin, the persistent hope of God's children despite despair and frustration, and the constant love of man for man in a world of bitterness and hate are all evidences of the power of the living Christ to transform human nature into divine vessels.

All Christians anticipate that moment when God through Christ will again enter into history in a manner, perhaps, beyond our fondest imaginings. But in the meantime there is work to do and men to teach and hearts which need love, and none of us is without the responsibility of bringing to our homes and neighborhoods the spirit of brotherhood and peace.

When Dr. William Merrill was asked by a parishioner if he believed that Christ was coming again, Dr. Merrill is said to have replied: "Why, I did not know that He had ever left." Christians who live according to the teachings of Christ are witnesses to the truth that Christ still lives in the hearts of those who love Him.

What Lies Ahead For Next 10 Years?

WASHINGTON—Now that election-minded politicians are through trying to make the American economy look either worse or better than it really is, it should be possible to look at economic matters more objectively.

What is the economic outlook—the long view, not just next month or next year, but over the next ten years? Is there reason to foresee an expanding economy, a rising standard of living with more leisure time for more people?

Is there a sound basis for optimism or is there serious doubt that we can maintain a high level of economic activity?

One set of answers to these questions is now being prepared by the staff of the Joint Congressional Committee on the President's economic report and will shortly be made public. While the report is not yet in final form, its major findings have been put down.

What can we reasonably expect over the next decade? In answer, the staff of the Joint Committee on the economic report has come up with what it calls the "Nation's Economic Budget" for the year 1965. Dr. Grover W. Enslay, staff director of the Committee, is the principal author. In the ten years from 1955 to 1965 there is foreseen:

1. — A population growth of one-fifth—from 160 millions last year to 190 millions ten years hence. The labor force will increase 18 per cent while consumers will increase more rapidly—children under 18 up 28 per cent, adults over 65 up 30 per cent.
2. — The total labor force in 1965 will be about 79 million, with probably 3 million in the armed services, another 3 million temporarily unemployed, with 73 million at work as compared with 62 million in 1955.
3. — The average work week will decline by another 10 per cent—or 200 fewer hours per year per man. "A three-day weekend is something to look forward to in the years ahead," Dr. Enslay remarks.
4. — Productivity, or output per man-hour, will increase 40 per cent in agriculture and 35 per cent in private industry.
5. — Total national output will double, will reach $355 billion at approximately present prices by 1965.
6. — There will be nearly a 30 per cent increase in real disposable per capita income.
7. — The federal budget is assumed to be balanced at levels permitting tax reductions of 15 to 20 per cent.
8. — Dr. Enslay lays it down as imperative that industry and labor and government must show that private enterprise can be free from any major depression.
9. — Dr. Enslay sees all of this economic ends not only attainable but probable. His own personal view is that they will prove too modest and will be exceeded. "Optimism," he reports, "is justified."

Adlai's Stock Rises As Party Leader

WASHINGTON—Democratic optimism about the 1956 presidential election got a big boost in Tuesday's elections.

So did the prospects of Adlai Stevenson as a candidate for renomination by his party. As to this, two samples: Averell Harriman, newly elected governor of New York, who will control that state's powerful delegation at the 1956 Democratic national convention, was asked if he would be a candidate for the nomination. He shot back:

"No—I am for Adlai Stevenson."

Former President Harry Truman was asked who his choice was for the 1956 nomination. He replied automatically without pausing:

"Adlai Stevenson."

These gratuitous endorsements by two very influential personages may be accepted as, in a sense, rewards for the yeoman work Mr. Stevenson did in the congressional election campaign for leadership of his party all over the country, as well as recognition of the 1952 candidate's abilities. He certainly earned those—and more. Incidentally, the election also unveiled two possible rivals for the nomination.

One is Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who won a fifth term, and is regarded with some favor by big conservative interests which would like to capture the Democratic Party through him. The other is Gov. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, elected to a fourth term in Michigan. He is in the New Deal-Fair Deal wing of the party.

As for the Democratic Party—it emerged from the Tuesday election with a much improved position because of its gains in Congress and elsewhere. This is true not only of its position in Congress, which is by way of being a forum for making issues, but also in the country at large.

Equally important in its bearing on future party prospects was the recapture by Democrats of strategic governorships, especially in the East. There was something quite dramatic, as well as portentous, in the veritable landslide in that area which added governors in New York, Pennsylvania and Connecticut to New Jersey, which was won last year, and Maine which was won in September.

This gives the party the machinery that can be useful in organizing for the 1956 presidential election.

The Eastern necktie of Democratic states has its special and peculiar virtue for Adlai Stevenson. It is a nucleus upon which to build for the 1956 Democratic convention. His journey down through New York and into New Jersey and Delaware was a spectacular adventure that drew large crowds. It was an appropriate climax to his demanding campaign schedule that took him clear across the country to the Pacific Coast and back. He spared no effort for his party—nor did he spare himself.

Mercer U. Law Day Speakers Are Listed

Plans were completed Thursday for the seventh annual law day observance of the Walter F. George School of Law at Mercer University Friday in Macon.

The program will feature addresses by three prominent speakers.

They are Carlton Mobley, Associate Justice of the Georgia Supreme Court; Judge Walter B. Jones, presiding judge of the 15th Alabama Judicial Circuit, now on special assignment presiding over the Phenix City trials and investigations; and Lloyd Wright of Los Angeles, Calif., president of the American Bar Assn.

Georgia's senior Sen. Walter F. George, for whom the school is named, will be among the 1,000 or more guests. Three Georgia legal organizations will hold meetings here in connection with the observance.

These are the board of governors of the Georgia Bar Association, the Association of Superior Court Judges and the Association of Solicitors General of Georgia. Delegates to these sessions will attend the law day sessions.

A barbecue luncheon will be held and shortly thereafter Dean F. Hodge O'Neal of the law school will make his annual report.

Queen Is Angel

City officials of Quitman, recognizing the acute water shortage in other towns in the area, have issued a ban on using water for lawns and gardens. . . . Judge Chester A. Byars Thursday ordered 10 Upson County roadhouses closed for six months. In Tuesday's election three more counties, Brantley, McIntosh and Charlton, approved a law requiring owners to fence cattle in. Long County defeated the proposal and remains the only county in the state with open range. . . . Miss Furman-dean Angel, 16, Elberton High School senior, will reign as homecoming queen Friday at the Elberton-Monroe football game in Elberton.

County Elections
Jesse O. Thomas of Atlanta will speak at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., at the institute's observance of National Achievement Week. . . . In Tuesday's election, Stewart County voters approved an amendment providing for referendum on school consolidation in affected school districts but rejected an amendment that would have provided for election of school board members by the people instead of appointment by the grand jury. Laurens County favored an amendment providing PHENIX CITY, Ala., Nov. 4. (AP) Accused gambler Godwin Davis Jr., already facing trial on 44 lottery charges, was arrested Thursday on another indictment charging election law violations.

The son of Godwin Davis Sr., who has been described by the National Guard as the czar of lottery operations in Phenix City, was taken to jail until he could make bond of $750 on the new charge.

90 INDICTMENTS
He was among the 59 defendants named in 90 indictments returned by the vice-investigating grand jury Tuesday. The true bill charged young Davis with violating election laws during the May 4 Democratic Primary.

The grand jury said that election was "rampant" with "criminal" irregularities, and 32 of the 90 indictments dealt with vote fraud offenses.

Young Davis and his father face trial the week of Nov. 15 on the lottery charges. The elder Davis' brother, George, also is scheduled for trial on 50 lottery indictments.

Three others previously indicted also were picked up today on new charges growing out of the grand jury's latest report. They were: GAMBLING CASES

Tommy Capps, accused of two election law counts. He already faces trial on two gambling charges. Lawrence Roney, two gambling charges. He was indicted earlier on similar counts.

Ernest Allen, charged with two election law violations. He was indicted previously on charges of assault and battery and attempting to buy a vote in the primary, but the charges were dismissed when the state said Allen was innocent of those accusations.

Another arrested today was Jim Ingersoll, indicted on one count alleging that he knowingly leased property for gambling purposes.

that two members of the county education board be selected from east of the Oconee River and three from west of the river. Muscogee County approved an amendment providing assessment paving, but County Atty. Theo. McGee said the General Assembly would have to pass an enabling act before Muscogee will be empowered to carry out provisions of the act.

Rural Electric Meet

Delegates from 80 rural electric systems, representing 379, 706 farms with electricity in Georgia, Florida and Alabama are expected to attend the National Rural Electric Cooperative Assn. Ex-Atlantan Fighting C.Z. Mosquitoes

A former Atlantan was scheduled to arrive in the Panama Canal Zone Thursday to lead a battle against malaria-spreading mosquitoes.

Carl Wesley Jr., 43, son of Mrs. Walter Hancock, 937 Juniper St., will make a survey of the zone to find out whether the Army Corps of Engineers can successfully conduct field tests on insecticide dust, spray and fog equipment developed for mosquito control.

Wesley's studies will also reveal the effects of new sprays on buildings and screens, according to the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories, Corps of Engineers. He is a civilian engineer with the laboratories, stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va. He and his wife, Mrs. Leonora Wesley, make their home in Alexandria, Virginia.

Wesley was a chemist for the City of Atlanta before World War II. He attended Emory University and George Washington University.

TB Yields To Education, Young Editors Told Here

About 200 students and faculty advisers from 34 Atlanta area high schools were told by speakers, movies and exhibits at the Atlanta Public Library Thursday that education is the "most important" factor in the control of tuberculosis.

Speaking at the annual press conference for high school editors sponsored by the Atlanta Tuberculosis Assn., Dr. C. C. Aven declared: "You can't control tuberculosis without educated medical and nursing professions."

Leo Aikman, editorial assistant of The Atlanta Constitution, and Louis Griffith, public relations director of the University of Georgia, stressed the importance of educating the public about tuberculosis to prevent spread of the disease. They explained the role of newspapers in interpreting "what can be done to control TB."

Aikman urged the high school editors to bring out the dramatic in news presentation.

Dr. Aven said the plan to include 75 beds for TB patients in the new Grady Hospital will enable medical students and nurses here to receive a much better education in the treatment of tuberculosis.

He said the Grady beds for tuberculosis patients would be used primarily for diagnosis, surgical procedure and emergency cases.

Dr. Aven emphasized the need for more trained personnel to carry on TB research. He said a program of research on infectious diseases, including tuberculosis, recently was started at Grady. He explained the program is partly financed by a grant from the Atlanta Tuberculosis Assn.

A film, "Within Man's Power," was shown to the students to illustrate progress in the fight against TB and to emphasize that "it's within man's power to control tuberculosis."

Exhibits depicting milestones in tuberculosis control in the past and needs for the future were made and explained by students from Decatur High School, Westminster School, Southwest DeKalb High School, Russell High School, Brown High School and Grady High School. Student speakers included Bob Matthews, Marsha Hill, Patricia Markey, Frank Cooper and Betsy Cook.

The conference was concluded with a question-and-answer session about various phases of tuberculosis control. Besides Griffith, panel members were: Knox Walker, member of the Board of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Assn.; O. B. Moore Jr., program consultant of the Georgia Tuberculosis Assn.; Miss Fay Logan, school health education director of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Assn.; Mrs. Dorothy Reeder, DeKalb County public health nurse, and Mrs. Mabel Smith, medical social worker of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Assn.

$70 Donor to Chest Forgets Tax Angle

An anonymous donor, perhaps more modest than practical, has mailed the Greater Atlanta Community Chest $70.

Chest campaign leaders appreciate the gift—but would like to remind contributors that if they make their names known, they can obtain receipts for use in making 1954 income tax returns.

Chest donations are deductible, campaign spokesmen pointed out.

A-Bomb Fires Studied at Parley Here

By BILL DIEHL

Fire officials from the seven Southeastern states Thursday got a terrifying and informative preview of what their jobs will be in the wake of any atomic or hydrogen bomb attack.

The officials, gathered for a conference sponsored by Civil Defense, heard warnings from six leading experts and researchers on fires after atomic attacks. They were first greeted by city and religious leaders including Mayor Hartsfield, Fire Chief C. C. Styron, Fire Commissioner Zach Cravey, Major Gen. George J. Hearn, state Civil Defense director, and Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist Church.

Among speakers addressing the more than 300 fire chiefs and assistants were Horatio Bond, chief engineer of the National Fire Protection Assn., from Boston, who recently completed a tour of World War II bombing targets in Japan, Germany and England; Lloyd Layman, director of the federal Civil Defense fire office and author of several books on modern firefighting and Col. William A. Brewer, director of the federal Civil Defense operations office. Mrs. Charles Clode and Miss Rota Lewis, both of London, England, discussed the role of women in firefighting and bomb aftermath.

Layman, a former fire chief from Parkersburg, W. Va., warned that firefighters would have to use "courage and discrimination" in battling atomic bomb-caused fires. He said blazes would strike anywhere and everywhere, pockmarking the city outside areas of total destruction.

"Firemen will have to use discretion in fighting A-bomb fires . . . they will have to let go of valuable real estate which is a potential loss and concentrate on retaining the fires in fringe areas.

"It will be worse than fighting a battle because this enemy will have no lines, just when you think you've got it beat, a new blaze will break out behind you.

And with all this there will always be the imminent danger of radiation."

Earlier in the day, Boyd had described fire as a "major weapon of warfare" in giving a harrowing thumbnail account of his trips through bombed out areas from World War II.

Ports Authority Earnings

The Georgia Ports Authority earned $1,276,706 in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1954, an audit released Thursday by State Auditor B. E. Thrasher showed.

Nearly $450,000 of this was placed in a sinking fund to cover the Authority's $5,500,000 bond issue. Of the remainder $353,911 went for current operating expenses.

The Authority's expenses during the 1953-54 fiscal year were nearly double those of the previous year and were more than three times as much as was expended in 1951-52.

The Authority ended the fiscal year with over $324,000 in the bank. In a separate audit, financial affairs of the now defunct State Ports Committee showed that a cash balance from the previous fiscal year of $155,000 had been expended for improvements and equipment, thus winding up the state's direct contribution to the ports.

3 Pay Fines Up to $500 In Slot Cases

Three persons charged with slot machine violations during the recent drive against "one-arm bandits" paid fines in Fulton Criminal Court Thursday on lottery charges. Two of them, J. F. Brook, 40, and J. E. Adams, 46, were arrested Aug. 5 during a raid by criminal court investigators on an Edge-wood avenue, N.E., coin machine exchange where investigators charged that slot machines were being repaired. Both entered guilty pleas.

Adams, owner of the establishment, was fined $500 or 12 months in jail, and Brook, Adams' employee, was fined $200 or 12 months. Criminal Sol. John I. Kelley asked Judge Luther Alverson to be lenient on the men in view of recommendations of the July-August term grand jury which urged war on slot machines.

Kelley pointed out that Adams already had paid $1,800 to redeem his car which investigators confiscated during the raid, and had also paid $400 in DeKalb County after slot machines were found at his residence.

In the other case, P. N. Nelms, 63, of 120 Knott Dr., East Point, manager of the East Point Elks Club, was fined $200 or 12 months on lottery charges booked against him after East Point police found slots at the club.

McGill To Fly 10-Day Tour Of Guatemala

Ralph McGill, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, is among a group of leading U.S. newsmen who will make a 10-day flying tour of Guatemala Saturday through Monday, Nov. 15.

The Constitution editor will interview Guatemalan President Carlos Castillo Armas, heroic anti-Communist leader whose forces booted the Reds out of Guatemala last June. McGill's daily columns, date-lined from Guatemala, will keep readers informed of his experiences in that Central American country.

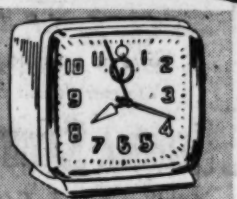

McGill and other representatives of major newspapers, news services, feature syndicates, magazines and television stations over the nation will be flown to Guatemala by Pan American World Airways.

The group was invited to help advise Guatemala on means of re-establishing its tourist business as the quickest and most effective means of rebuilding its economy. McGill pointed out here that the United States imports coffee, chicla, bananas and other products from Guatemala. He described Guatemala as "one of the most beautiful countries in the world, rivaling Switzerland in its scenic mountains and lakes."

Because of Guatemala's vital position between the Americas, the editor said, and because of the country's heroic struggle against Communist domination, the United States is anxious to see Guatemala's economy rebuilt as soon as possible.

Bullpups Go Against Baby Tide Today

Atlantans Lofton and Durden Shake Injuries, Ready To Play

Constitution Staff Writer

ATHENS, Nov. 4—Nothing happened when the varsities of the University of Georgia and the University of Alabama met last Saturday in Birmingham. But Friday the freshmen of both schools meet here and coaches are hoping the touchdowns fall free and easy.

Auburn's first year men tackled expected to go with two units as he did in his past games with the young Maroons and Plainsmen. Clay Walls of Bessemer, Ala., will quarterback one team and Charles Nelson of Birmingham will lead the second crew.

Georgia's stock was boosted when it was announced that Atlanta's Wilbur Lofton, hard-hitting fullback, and center Gibson Durden have shed casts and would be in the starting lineup.

Lofton will run against an old foe when he meets Alabama tackle Roy Vickery. Vickery played for Murphy High in 1953 when Lofton was running wild for the state champion Grady High School team.

Another Georgia back, Rennie Smith of West Point, is ready for action and he along with Bracco, Lofton and Charlie Barnes give the Bullpups a first class offensive powerhouse.

Game time has been set for 1:30.

The draft proposal would allow major league clubs to select three players instead of one from each minor league club, with draft prices boosted radically. The broadcast legislation would ban all channeling into minor league territory.

The proposals, to become a part of the major-minor agreement should the minors approve them at Houston and the majors sanction them at their Dec. 6-8 sessions in New York, are designed to give further aid to the fading minors.

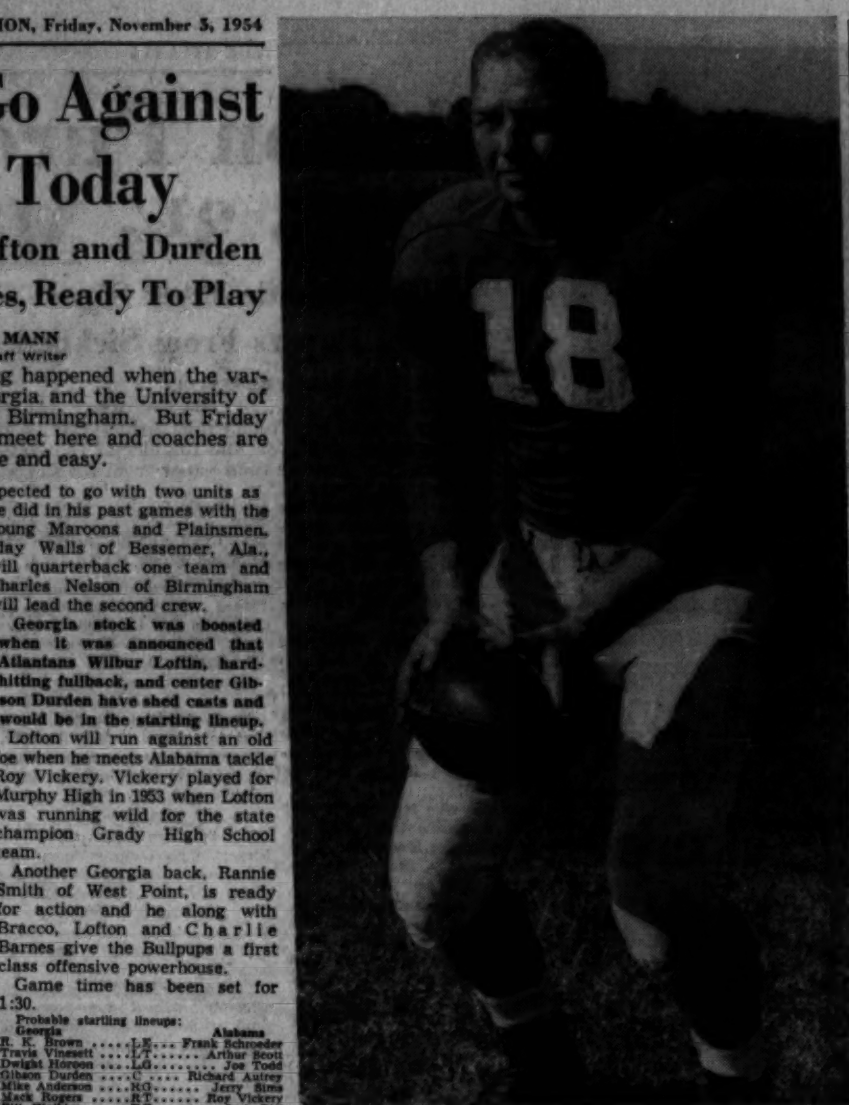

Under the proposed amendment, major leagues would pay $30,000 for each player drafted from an open classification club (the Coast League) and $15,000 for a player from any other club regardless of classification. Under present rules the prices range from $15,000 in the open classification clubs down to $2,000 in class D.

All players with 5 years' service would be draft bait in the open class, 4 years in double or triple A, 3 in class A, and 2 in class B, C and D. Contingent on whether the major-minor draft changes are ratified, the minors would have a new draft setup of their own with prices boosted $500 to $1,000 over the current payments.

GRIMSLEY PICKS Tech, Past the Vols; Rice Over Porkers

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—A Brooklyn housewife, using the eeny-meeny-miny-mo system, picked 15 winners in 15 games last week for first prize in a newspaper football contest.

She said she thought a quarterback was what you got when you laid out a buck for 75 cents' worth of pork chops.

Our intricate system of odds rules, crystal balls and tea leaves gave us 35 winners, 13 setbacks and a .729 average. Season's score: 294-94 for .713.

With no trace of housemaid's knee, we bravely try again:

Ohio State over Pittsburgh: The honeymoon ends for admiral Tom Hamilton, who has done a great job. The Buckeyes have the stuff to stop Corny Salvaterra.

UCLA over Oregon: The Nation's No. 1 team, with Primo Villanova romping, should win by three touchdowns.

Rice over Arkansas: Dick Moege should prove the difference in handling the Razorbacks their first defeat.

Oklahoma at Iowa State: The Sooners, stung by the drop to third place in the poll, roll up a big score.

Duke over Navy: The Blue Devils buoyed by their close squeak over Georgia Tech. No team is "high" after meeting Notre Dame.

Army over Yale: If the field turns up dry, the Cadets' tremendous speed will hand old Eli its first defeat. A close game if it's wet.

Purdue over Iowa: Stop Len Dawson's passes and Bill Mursawski rips your middle—that's Purdue's success formula.

Southern California over Stanford: Stanford is the season's most baffling up-and-down team, but Southern Cal aces roses.

West Virginia over Fordham: Art Lewis may find it hard to get the Mountaineers' spirits up after the loss to Pitt, but West Virginia has too much power.

Texas over Baylor: The Longhorns break their scoring lethargy and prevail in a mild upset.

Notre Dame over Penn: The

others: FRIDAY NIGHT
Virginia Tech over George Washington, Kansas State over Drake, Marquette over Boston College.

SATURDAY
East—Boston University over Villanova, Dartmouth over Columbia, Princeton over Harvard, Cornell over Syracuse, Penn State over Holy Cross, Colorado over Purdue, Brown over Springfield, Rutgers over Lafayette.

Midwest—Michigan over Illinois, Nebraska over Kansas, Michigan State over Washington State, Minnesota over Oregon State, Wisconsin over Northwestern, Indiana over Miami (Ohio), Oklahoma A&M over Detroit, Missouri over Colorado, Mississippi over Dayton.

South—Alabama over Tulane, Miami (Fla.) over Auburn, Kentucky over Vanderbilt, Florida over Georgia, Maryland over North Carolina State, South Carolina over North Carolina, Wake Forest over Richmond, Mississippi State over North Texas State, Mississippi over Memphis State, William & Mary over VMI, Clemson over Furman, LSU over Chattanooga, The Citadel over Sewberry, Davidson over Colgate.

Southeast—Southern Methodist over Texas A&M, Houston over Tulsa, Harris-Stimmons over Texas Western.

Far West—California over Washington, Cincinnati over Arizona State at Tempe, Denver over Brigham Young, Texas Tech over Arizona, Utah over Colorado A&M, Montana over New Mexico, Montana State over North Dakota, College of Pacific over San Jose State, Wyoming over Utah State.

Fighting Irish have had some close squeaks but should win this one by three or four touchdowns.

Georgia Tech over Tennessee: Bobby Dodd, a fine psychologist, has whipped the Engineers into a fighting mood.

Frank Brooks 'Just the Type' For Defensing Single-Wing

Dodd Sure Shotgun Guard Will Figure Big Against Vols

Memo to Tech fans lucky enough to have a ticket for Saturday's game with Tennessee:

Keep your eyes on Tech's No. 60, a big number draped around an average-sized guard by the name of Franklin Brooks.

Brooks, a two-time letterman junior, looms as the most probable defensive key for the Jackets against the single-wing Vols.

"He'll figure," head coach Bobby Dodd said Thursday as his Techs romped through indoors practice. "He'll figure a lot in our hopes. He's fast, he's quick, he reacts, he's just the type guard you need to defense a single-wing."

Brooks' "type" is the "shotgun" type—the fast-moving player quick enough to shoot a single-wing's "wind-up" play before it starts.

Tech's defense is set up to take advantage of Brooks' quick reactions. The Jackets play him on the line about half the time, as a middle backer-up about half the time. From his linebacker slot, they stunt—or crash—him off the gap occasionally. And they also use one defense which allows Brooks to rove with the play.

Brooks' speed can be used to better defensive advantage against a single-wing attack, a formation which more or less "winds-up" before getting the play under way. His bugaboo is supposed to be the split-T, but even there Brooks has been Tech's stopper up front.

Up to 190 pounds now after entering Tech as a 163-pound non-weakling, Brooks has blossomed into the Jackets' top all-around lineman. His offensive work—nothing to be particularly proud of last year—has improved 100 per cent. And his defensive play is even better than that which won him national Lineman of the Week honors once in 1953.

"He has a great sense of knowing where the other team will run," Dodd said Thursday. "That's why we sometimes play him loose, letting him follow the play instead of defending an assigned area."

And defensive line coach Ray Graves followed up with words of higher praise: "He's our best all-around lineman right now, one of the best all-around guards I've ever seen."

Brooks is Tech's leader—by far—in individual tackles with a total of 67 in seven games. His game-by-game breakdown shows four tackles and a fumble recovery against Tulane (where Tech's regulars played only a small part of the contest); nine tackles and a fumble recovery against Florida; 10 tackles, two fumble recoveries and a blocked punt against SMU; six tackles against LSU; 10 tackles and three key down field blocks against Auburn; nine tackles against Kentucky; and an amazing 18 tackles against Duke in spite of his famous 101-degree fever.

QUICK OPENERS: Brooks is a real home-grown star, doing his high school playing for O'Keefe—just across the street from Tech practice field. He was Georgia all-state in both '50 and '51. . . . The Techs had enough sense to come in out of the rain Thursday, holding non-contact work in the school gym. Play recognition took care of a large portion of the practice time.

Tech's first unit lined up with a pair of centers, Larry and Jimmy M. Morris. Coach Bobby Dodd said he expects to leave the final playing decision up to Larry Saturday, which makes the Brahma Bull almost a cinch to play. . . . Although it was strictly non-contact Thursday, safety man-comedian Bill Brigman immediately signaled a fair catch every time the "Vols" went through the motions of a punt. . . . Players warmed up for the practice by playing basketball.

Arnold Johnson Buys A's for Kansas City

League requesting approval of the transaction at the earliest possible date. Thereafter, the franchise will be moved to Kansas City."

The Macks sent the following letter to President Will Harridge of the American League:

"This letter is being sent to you by Cornelius McGillicuddy, Earle T. McGillicuddy and Roy McGillicuddy, to inform you that we have made an agreement with Arnold Johnson to sell all the outstanding stock of the American League Baseball Club of Philadelphia."

"This agreement contemplates a transfer of the franchise to Kansas City, Mo. We are now united in our desires and we herewith request the American League to approve the above, and would appreciate it, if such approval would be obtained by you at the earliest possible date."

In Chicago, Harridge said Johnson had notified him by telephone. He said a meeting of club owners to act on the sale and transfer to Kansas City will be held early Monday in New York.

Johnson said both Earle and Roy remain in the organization under three year contracts and that Connie will be named chairman of the board of directors. Salary and the type of position intended for the sons were not disclosed.

Also, Johnson said, there is a place in the organization for both Connie Mack III, Roy's son, and Earle Mack Jr. It was indicated that young Connie would move to Kansas City.

Actually, the amount of cash to be expended by Johnson will be about 2 1/2 million dollars—$1,504,000 to buy the stock from the Macks and the rest to pay off the debts of the club.

He will assume the $1,200,000 mortgage on Connie Mack Stadium, paying all presently-owned installments. Then, Johnson said, he hopes to sell the stadium to Bob Carpenter, owner of the National League's Philadelphia Phils.

Johnson said today he would keep a minimum of 51 percent of the Athletics' stock for himself and would become club president. He named as his associates in the transaction, Nathaniel Leverone, J. Robert Lennan and Joseph Briggs, all Chicagoans.

Johnson explained that he would get together with his associates in the next 48 hours to review the entire situation. He said the first order of business would be to hire a general manager and get the organization started. He said the work on the Kansas City stadium, which will be enlarged to seat 35,000 has been going on during negotiations.

Surgeon Will Look at Allie Reynolds' Finger

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 4 (AP)—A plastic surgeon tomorrow will examine the deep finger gash that may force Allie Reynolds to retire as a pitcher for the New York Yankees.

A skin grafting operation was performed on the wound which Reynolds suffered in a shower room accident in Colorado Springs, Colo., last week.

The wound was re-dressed yesterday. A surgeon will examine it tomorrow to see whether further surgery might be in order on the index finger of his pitching hand.

Reynolds, who won 13 and lost four with the Yanks last season, said he won't make a decision on his baseball future until the finger heals and he can tell whether it will be crippled.

Vol Bruce Burnham Won't Play at Tech

Allen Out of Gator Lineup;
Horton Travels With Vandy

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports
Bruce Burnham, Tennessee regular right guard who suffered a shoulder separation in Vol blocking drills Wednesday, will not see action against Georgia Tech.

"Burnham is out indefinitely," UT trainer Mickey O'Brien declared Thursday. "He definitely won't play against Tech, but if the injury responds he may get into some later games."

Bob Scott, 200-pound junior from Cleveland, Tenn., will replace Burnham in the probable starting lineup.

The Vols will arrive in Atlanta late Friday afternoon, electing to hold final workouts in Knoxville before leaving Tennessee alumni and hand headquarters will be set up at the Baltimore Hotel.

MORE SEC: Richard Allen of Atlanta, bothered by an old neck injury, was replaced in Florida's starting lineup by Bobby Lance. Auburn's Jack Locklear was dismissed early from Plainsman practice with a slight touch of flu but is expected to play against

Football Briefs

Miami: . . . Charlie Horton, Vanderbilt's top runner sidelined with a leg injury the past month, was included on the 33-man traveling squad as the Commodores prepared to leave for Saturday's game with Kentucky. . . . Co-capt. Joe Kock, a guard, is the only Wildcat expected to miss Kentucky's Homecoming tilt with Vandy. . . . Mississippi's Earl Blair, who injured his leg against LSU two weeks ago, may return to the Rebels' starting lineup against Memphis State Saturday.

Tulane: used quarterback Freddie Wilcox, left half Tommy Warner, right half Otto Gilmore and fullback Bob Sala as the first unit backfield in final heavy practice for Alabama. . . . LSU's Bengals got practice shortened a half-hour due to Thursday's cold north winds. . . . Mississippi State coach Darrell Royal announced three lineup changes for the Maroons against North Texas State. Scott Suber shifts from left tackle back to left guard as a starter; Bill Glasgow replaces Suber as the left tackle starter; and Ted Vallis moves from reserve guard to tackle, where he will understudy Glasgow.

SOUTH: Miami's unbeaten Hurricane will arrive in Birmingham Friday afternoon, hold short drills for their Saturday game there with Auburn. The Southern Conference all-America board nominated five more players—William and Mary's tackle Jerry Sazio, fullback Doug Henley and halfback Charlie Sumner; Davidson halfback Jimmy Thacker, and Furman center John Socha—to its list of 32 under consideration for postseason honors. . . . Maryland quarterback Dick Bielaki was taken to the hospital with flu, will be replaced against North Carolina by George Albrecht. . . . South Carolina's Frank Mincevich, nearly recovered from an ankle injury suffered last week, joined the Gamecocks in a long Thursday workout. . . . Wake Forest's Mike Sells will start at center in place of injured Joe Dupree. . . . With regular North Carolina fullback Marshall Newman injured, the Tar Heels alternated Don Knoch and George Wallin with the first unit in Thursday drills.

SOUTHWEST: Texas tackle Herb Grey, demoted last week in disciplinary action, has regained a starting berth for Saturday's game with Baylor.

BIG TEN: Johnny Matsock, Michigan State's jack-of-all-trades halfback, will probably start at quarterback for the first time against Washington State. . . . Ohio State ace Howard Casady and end Dick Brubaker, both troubled with injuries, will see only spot action against Pitt.

EAST: Five New Haven State Teachers regulars were sidelined—with poison ivy—after helping clear underbrush from the school campus. . . . Notre Dame's Frank Varrelhone became the father of a baby girl Thursday, but still had to attend practice.

BIG SEVEN: Oklahoma ran through a series of new plays in final workouts for Iowa State. . . . Colorado will be without injured first-stringers Hower Scott, a fullback, and Dick Golder, a tackle, in their upcoming tussle with Missouri.

CONSTITUTION 50

Consensus Picks

Georgia Tech, after being knocked off twice in a row by Kentucky and Duke, is still the favorite with Constitution staffers to whip Tennessee on Grant Field Saturday. Not a staffer went against Coach Bobby Dodd's crew.

Despite their underdog role, the University of Georgia pulled four of nine votes to whip Florida. However, five staffers liked the Gators and made them a slight favorite.

In a big Southwest Conference game, Rice was the narrow 5-4 choice over Arkansas and Purdue, in the Big 10, was given the same close vote over Iowa and Navy edged Duke in the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk.

To date, the Consensus has hit on 248 out of 351 tries for an average of .707. Charlie Roberts is the season's leader with 263 right of 351 games, a .735 percentage.

AND BAD FOR MIAMI Seven May Be Magic For Auburn Saturday

Special to The Constitution

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Nov. 4.—For being the University of Miami's seventh opponent and for playing the 1954 Hurricane in Birmingham, cheers to the schedule-makers.

Miami's two powerhouses of past years stumbled after six-game winning streaks that began on the first day of the season. And never since the 1950 season has Andy Gustafson's Hurricane won a game outside its own home town.

In that year Miami bounced Purdue and Pittsburgh on the road, then went upstate to Jacksonville and bopped Clemson in the Gator Bowl. But even this mighty Miami grid production was tripped up in its seventh outing, being tied 14-14 by Louisville.

Six, the digit that was like a barricade to Hurricane outfits in 1941 and 1950, has been cropping up all over the current Miami figure sheet.

Gordon Malloy, the Atlanta native whom Coach Gustafson calls "an all-American if there ever was one," has scored six touchdowns in his greatest season at the Florida school. Six likewise is the school's peak national ranking, allotted the Miami in this week's Associated Press poll.

Gustafson, superstitious or not, is plenty worried about the Plainsmen. "They're really hot and rolling now," he told his ball club during a practice session this week. "They'll be hard to beat," he added.

The Hurricanes are pointing for two more season records besides the new winning streak. They need 44 points for a new one-year scoring record and they are just 23 yards of interception runbacks from a new mark in that department.

K. C. Shift Puts O'Doul At Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 4 (U.P.). Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, 57-year-old veteran baseball figure, today was named manager of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League.

O'Doul skipped San Diego to the league championships this year.

Terms were not disclosed but it was believed O'Doul would get what San Diego had paid him, a reported $30,000. Brick Lave, the Oakes owner, said O'Doul would manage Oakland "from now on," but it was understood the contract was for one year.

O'Doul said he was influenced by the fact that the Philadelphia Athletics were sold this morning to Arnold Johnson of Chicago for transfer to Kansas City.

"I had an inkling that Johnson would get the club. It was the Mack brothers who wanted me to manage the team," O'Doul told newsmen.

Bobby Willis Under Knife At Fort Mac

Bobby Willis, who is expected to be the Atlanta Crackers' 1955 shortstop, underwent an abdominal operation Thursday morning at Fort McPherson Hospital and will be confined for from one to three weeks.

Willis, who batted .319 while playing short for Ft. Mac's pro-studded baseball nine, will be released from the army Dec. 8 and had planned to play winter ball in Puerto Rico to ready himself for the Cracker job. The operation will keep him sidelined until spring, however.

The slim Atlantan, who played for Bass High's 1950 state title team and later was a stickout for Thibadeaux, La. in the Evangeline League, is regarded by Cracker pres. Earl Mann as one of the finest fielders in organized baseball.

—ROBERTS

Brodsky, Robinson, Atlanta's Allen Pace Gators

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 4—Joe Brodsky, 210-pounds of Florida football dynamite, exploded his way past the 300-yard mark in rushing, and Fred Robinson, a spot-playing quarterback, passed his way through 200-yards in seven games. Football statistics released this week by the University of Florida Sports Publicity Department found Brodsky head and shoulders above his running colleagues.

In 63 carries, the bull-like Miami sophomore has gained 302 yards for an average per carry of 4.8 yards.

Robinson fired a 21-yard bullet against Mississippi State in one of two attempts, bringing his passing yardage to 214 yards for seven games. He's now averaging .577 on 15 completions of 26 attempts.

Wiry quarterback Richard Allen, a running-passing combine from Atlanta, has completed 17 of 41 passes for 183 yards, while netting 127 yards in 28 carries from scrimmage.

Bobby Lance, a junior from Nashville, has hit 11 of 21 for 106 yards and a .524 passing percentage.

While Florida was winning its fourth SEC game Saturday

Jackie Simpson, Joe Brodsky, Richard Allen, Weldon Lockhart, seven backs passed the 100-yard rushing mark. Behind Brodsky, is flashy John Burgess, a halfback from Lake Wales, with 179 yards in 39 carries. Others over the 100-yard mark are Mal

Hammack (170), Bobby Lance (167), Jackie Simpson (167), Bob Davis (130), and Richard Allen (127).

Burgess maintained a sensational pace in pass receiving by nabbing a ten-yarder against the Maroons. He's now caught 11 for 107 yards. Halfback Bob Smith and end Weldon Lockhart follow him with seven apiece, for 88 and 81 yards, respectively.

Allen retained number one position among Florida's punters, kicking three times for 104 yards against State. His current total is 424 yards on eleven punts for a 38.5 average. He is still Florida's top extra point converter with six of nine attempts.

Halfback Jackie Simpson's 18 points and 209 yards still top the Gators in scoring and kick-off returns. He carried the ball into the end zone against State, only to fumble it to Gator tackle Buster Hill who scored. Simpson has returned eight kickoffs for a 26.1 yard average.

In team statistics, Florida maintained a slight lead over opponents in net gains from scrimmage. The Gators have rushed for 1,414 yards and have yielded 1,412 to seven opponents.

Simerville Leads Northside in Mud

Lester Scores 13, Gains 159; Tibbetts' Aerials Fire Owls

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Lester Simerville, Northside High's football go-go boy, tramped through the goo-goo as if it were dry land Thursday night and led the unconquered Tigers to a 20-12 triumph over West Fulton in a rectangular quagmire boxed in by Grady Stadium concrete.

Loping Lester, regarded by many as Georgia's finest high school back, splattered mud and water in his wake as he navigated for two touchdowns, a running extra point and 159 yards in 13 carries, a net average gain of 12.2 yards.

The 170-pound six-footer, twice the state's 220-yard dash champion, ran his yards gained total to more than 1,000 yards for the second year in a row—he now has 1,023 as compared with 1,013 a year ago—and upped his City League-leading point total to 90.

Marvelous Marvin Tibbetts, West Fulton's dead-eye-Dick passer, didn't disappoint his growing host of fans even in the pouring rain and slush. For after the Tigers rolled up a 20-0 lead in the third quarter, the 170-pound, 15-year-old sophomore took to the air, water or no water, and pitched the Owls back into the game, hitting end Fred Dennis with a pair of scoring aerials. In all, he hit on seven of 14 tosses for 59 yards and had three bulls-eyes dropped.

Northside, needing the victory to make certain next week's meeting with North Fulton will be a winner-take-all clash for the Northern Division 3-AA championship, was startled into frenzied activity on the first scrimmage play of the game. Larry Haygood, who gained 108 of West Fulton's overland yards, winged through tackle for 57 yards, the Tigers' five-yard line. There, Gordon Beckman overhauled him, marking the first of several game-saver tackles by the swift red-head.

A penalty set Jack Hogg's Owls back, and a fourth-down Tibbetts-Haygood pass for six yards fell a yard shy of a touchdown. Northside spent the rest of the quarter climbing out of that hole. But three plays into the second go-round, tiny Fred Brown, an import from Chamblee, broke open the stalemate with a 32-yard scoring run that put the cap on a five-play, 47-yard drive. That made it 6-0, Northside.

South tackle Fred Nutting gave Northside a shot at another touchdown with time running out in the half by pouncing upon an Owl fumble at the West Fulton 30. Simerville spun through tackle on the first play and went all the way. Beckman ran the extra point for 13-0 halftime lead.

The third quarter was two plays old when Simerville touched the ball again. He warmed up with a one-yard run and then shot around end and high-tailed it 54 yards to paydirt. He encored with a run for the 20th point.

West Fulton fumbled the kickoff, and Harvey Charvin staked claim for Northside at the Owls' 35. End Duck Smith promptly intercepted the only pass Coach Weyman Creel's boys attempted, and Tibbetts, Dennis, Haygood and Company were the glory boys after that until game's end.

Tibbetts fired 19 yards to end Guy Jones, and shortly after Lee Holt spun off tackle for 37 yards to the Northside eight and a play lost three years, Tibbetts lofted an 11-yard pass to Dennis for a score that left it at 20-6.

Red Hawks Set Record, Still Lose

By JIMMY MANN

Members of the Red Hawk 10 Pin bowling league left the Buckhead alleys last Tuesday night shaking their heads. It was hard to figure out just how they had lost their game with Knights of Columbus but there it was on the boards, 908-884.

The Red Hawks five-man firing squad had moved down 887 pins for a new league record for one game. But then the Knights came flying right in with 884 pins dropped and a 24 handicap for a 908 total and the new mark lasted just long enough for the final Knight to roll.

Both clubs found the pins sitting on edge and bettered the old league record of 881 posted by Randall and Miller's. Randall clung to its top standing in the league with a 20-4 record for the season and Miller's and Southern Tech trail with identical 18-6 charts. The hard luck Red Hawks are fourth with a 16-8 standing.

Joe Anderson of the Hawks posted the high individual game of the year in his Red Hawks defeat by the Knights of Columbus. He knocked down 244.

PIT BITS: Billy Allen and Charles Bonner won the limited doubles tournament at Luckie Strike last Saturday and Sunday with a total of 1,276 pins kayeed. Second place went to Charles and Fox Hall with 1,274. Other finishers: Joe Poythress and Carl Raper (1,232), Newton Roberts and Bill Hargrove (1,126) and Harry Berg and Q. W. King (1,126).

Jack Key posted one of the highest games of the year at Luckie Strike this past week a 176 (with ducks). It is the best since George Pope topped 177. Key managed to drop 407 pins with his three games which included the 176. . . . Other 400 or better efforts at Luckie Strike

"IT'S WONDERFUL TO SEE YOU"
President Eisenhower Greets Royal Visitor

Britain's Queen Mother Guest in White House

By RUTH COWAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth arrived for a visit today and was installed as a temporary guest in the White House, where tonight she was honored at a dinner given by friends of World War II days, the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Among the 62 dinner guests was Mrs. Perle ("Don't Call Me Madame") Mesta, who was former President Truman's minister to Luxembourg.

The Queen Mother and her entourage arrived from New York in Eisenhower's plane, the Columbine, and were welcomed at the airport by Secretary of State Dulles.

QUEEN ANTICIPATES

In the exchange of pleasantries there, she said she was "looking forward to meeting Mrs. Eisenhower again and to seeing the President, whom all Europe recognizes as a great commander and who we know is a good friend of Great Britain."

The Eisenhowers were waiting on the portico when she arrived at the White House shortly afterward in a long black limousine, which made its way through crowds of applauding government workers.

"It's wonderful to see you," the President said.

The Queen Mother, who last visited Washington in 1939 with the late King George VI, wore a two-piece ensemble of light gray-blue, with matching coat and a close-fitting hat touched off with red feathers. She was preceded by 40 pieces of luggage.

Mrs. Eisenhower greeted her in a navy blue faille dress, with a long mink coat swung over her shoulders against the chilly weather.

The descendants of three former Presidents, two named Roosevelt, were also on the dinner guest list. There were John A. Roosevelt, son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his wife, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, and Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., son of President Hoover, and his wife.

NIXON, WARREN

The list included also Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon, Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren, House Speaker Joseph Martin and a full turn-out of the President's "official family."

The Queen Mother will remain at the White House for three days, after which she will move to the British Embassy until next Wednesday, when she leaves for Williamsburg, Va.

Flowers for the dinner table in the state dining room, set with gold-dipped knives, forks and spoons, were gold carnations, called "Colorado harvest moon," and flown here for the occasion.

Color-Changing Necktie Tested For Smog Clue

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4 (AP)—The tie worn by a University of Southern California student changed color today as he sat in a class room.

The cravat was transformed from a coral shade to a bluish purple, and faculty members blamed the phenomenon on the smog.

The tie was turned over to Dr. Joseph Smatko, head of the university's chemical engineering department, where extensive tests are to be made on it.

Dr. Smatko said oxidizing substances in the ozone probably changed the tie's color. He indicated that his tests might provide valuable data on the chemical components of smog.

James Sharpless, who gave up his tie in the interests of science, said he wore it to classes today over his wife's objections.

"She thought it was a little too bright," said Sharpless. "The smog took care of that. The front side changed to a grape shade, but the underside remained coral, as did the inside of the knot."

Vote Doesn't Repudiate Ike, Knowland Claims

Says Local Issues Won Out;
No Indication for '56 Seen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said today the Democrats won "an obvious victory" by wresting control of Congress from the Republicans but that it could not be regarded as "a repudiation of the Eisenhower administration."

Apparently local issues and personalities were the determining factors, Knowland said, commenting that he could find no general pattern for Republican defeats other than the traditional loss of strength by the party in power in non-presidential elections.

NO FORERUNNER
Knowland, meeting with reporters in his office, also said he does not think the Democratic gains in the off-year election are "necessarily a forerunner" of what will happen in the 1956 presidential election.

In response to a question, he said he expects the Democratic gains in the off-year election are "necessarily a forerunner" of what will happen in the 1956 presidential election.

"I have assumed he would be a candidate in 1956," Knowland said. "I know of no reason to change my assumption."

"The long history of the country has been that regardless of personal reasons, there are cogent reasons why he should be a candidate again."

DOUBTS SATISFACTION

Knowland said he doubts the "New Deal, ADA-CIO wing of the Democratic party can get any satisfaction about 1956" from the Democratic victory this week. He was referring to the next presidential campaign.

Knowland said he expects the Democrats to organize and control the Senate, adding that this new responsibility "might develop some cleavages in their own ranks."

He said he is willing to act as minority leader for Republicans in the January session if Republican senators ask him to do so.

He said that Republicans have no plans to challenge numerous close Democratic Senate victories "unless there is some evidence of frauds."

IKE'S HELP

Discussing the campaign generally, Knowland said he thinks the last-round activity by President Eisenhower "was helpful" to Republican candidates.

He added that he personally wished that President Eisenhower had started campaigning earlier, visited more states and stayed longer in some of them.

Building, Income Up, U.S. Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Personal income and new construction, two of the brightest spots in the national economy, are continuing at high levels, the government reported tonight.

Personal income in September rose to an annual rate of $287,400,000,000. This was $2,000,000,000 higher than in August, the Commerce Department said.

For the first nine months of this year, personal income rolled in at an annual rate of $285,700,000,000, about $2,000,000,000 above the corresponding period of last year when a new record was achieved.

Personal income includes wages and salaries; net income of farm and non-farm ownership; non-partnerships; dividends and interest; net rents and other types of individual income.

Construction expenditures last month totaled $3,500,000,000, 3 per cent below September but 8 per cent above October, 1953. On a seasonally adjusted basis, spending for construction has risen almost steadily since last January. Indications are that the year's total will be a record $37,000,000,000, about $1,750,000,000 more than last year.

MARLON BRANDO'S FIANCEE—PARIS, Nov. 4.—Josane Mariana-Berenger, 20, fiancée of movie actor Marlon Brando, relaxes on the sands of the French Riviera. The stepdaughter of a fisherman in the village of Bandol, France, Josane has been an artist's model and a governess in the family of a New York psychiatrist. She presently is in Paris from where she hopes to leave for the U.S. shortly.

Case Takes 3,308 N.J. Lead; Impounding of Boxes Asked

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 4 (AP)—Republican Clifford P. Case moved into a 3,308 vote lead in the New Jersey Senate race tonight and the Democrats asked for a bipartisan move to impound all ballots to insure a "fair and honest election."

The ballots and voting machines in the state's 21 counties already were under police guard on orders from the state attorney general. Continuing late revisions and re-checks had given Case a widening edge over Democrat Charles R. Howell, but a recount was possible.

Mamie Can't Say No To 8 New Chapeaux

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Most women spend hours choosing one new hat, but Mamie Eisenhower has bought a whole hat wardrobe sight unseen.

Eight bonnets have been delivered to the White House by Sally Victor, Mrs. Eisenhower's milliner.

Mrs. Victor said the first lady merely told her what colors she wanted and what she wanted to wear the hats with and to whip them up for her.

Atom Workers Pay Talks Stalled; Walkout Next Week Is Indicated

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 4 (AP)—Negotiations on a seven-month wage dispute involving 4,500 key atomic production workers bogged down tonight. A union official indicated a strike may be called if no agreement is reached by Saturday.

However, Elwood Hayne, district director of the CIO gas, coke and chemical workers union, which represents production employees at nearby Oak Ridge and at Paducah, Ky., held out hope for another company proposal at meetings tomorrow.

Union representatives met with officials of Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp. and federal mediator E. F. Hitchcock today and tonight without reaching any agreement. Hitchcock scheduled another meeting for 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Hayne said after tonight's session that "if an agreement cannot be reached by Saturday night, something will have to be done (by the union) Monday or Tuesday."

He said the union submitted

If the names of Audrey Hepburn, Humphrey Bogart and William Holden don't ring the cash register at the Fox Theater this week, there's something dead wrong with modern-day public taste.

City Sentence For Contempt Ruled Void

Fulton Criminal Judge Luther Alverson ruled Thursday that Municipal Judge James Webb had exceeded his authority in imposing a 30-day jail sentence on a 27-year-old Negro for contempt of court.

The judge also held the sentence void in that it was excessive and "unreasonable" and amounted to three times the 10-day maximum for a contempt citation imposed in the Georgia Supreme Court.

The ruling followed a habeas corpus hearing during which Wesley Asinof, the Negro's attorney, argued that in a contempt matter the Municipal Court's power "is the same as that of a justice of the peace court."

JP courts are limited to fines of $5 or five hours in jail on contempt sentences, Asinof claimed. He said his client had been held in the city jail 48 hours—nine times as long as the court legally could hold him.

The citation grew out of a hearing on lottery charges against the Negro, Gary White of 341 Bowen Cir., SE, which began Saturday before Judge Webb. After hearing the case, the court recessed, Asinof claimed, and his client went home, thinking the case had been "checked."

When the court reconvened Saturday and the Negro did not appear, the judge ordered his bond forfeited. When the bondsman brought White into court, he waived preliminary hearing.

Judge Webb ordered him bound over to Fulton Criminal Court on the lottery charge, then held him in contempt for his non-appearance Saturday, Asinof charged.

Basing his action on a 1933 Supreme Court decision which voided a 20-day contempt sentence imposed in Municipal Court, Alverson said the city had no authority to impose such a sentence.

Judge Alverson ordered the Negro released from the city jail and remanded him to the custody of the sheriff. White later made a bond of $1,000.

Audrey Hepburn

Adapted from a story by Samuel Taylor by Billy Wilder, who takes top billing in the story credits, and Ernest Lehman, this bright, effervescent comedy flaunts many of the age-old screenland ideas (Miss Hepburn, for instance, has anything but a Marilyn Monroe-type figure), but it comes off as first rate fun. Paramount executive Barney Balaban's home was used as the setting for the film, giving fans a look-see at a screenland castle.

The play abounds in highly amusing situations. The romantic plot which finds Bogart and Holden competing for the affections of Miss Hepburn is not novel, but the manner in which these principals handle their assignments is different. Their pretending is in the manner of Academy Award performers. So is the production of Wilder, who was awarded an Academy doll for his "Sunset Boulevard."

Reviewer's rating: Superb romance-comedy. Adult classification.

"A Bullet Is Waiting" is a well-enacted suspense story distinguished chiefly by some fine Technicolor photography and an excellent musical score by Dimitri (High Noon) Tiomkin.

It gives Rory Calhoun, fast-rising young actor, his first chance at a dramatic role and stars him opposite Jean Simmons, who has never looked lovelier. Calhoun plays a young man on the run from sheriff Stephen McNally. When the plane carrying the lawman and accused murderer crashes on a lonely stretch of Pacific Coast, they stagger into a desolate farm owned by Brian Aherne and his daughter, Miss Simmons.

The film is punctuated with action and violence as Calhoun and McNally alternately try to get the upper hand while waiting for flood waters to subside so they can get away from the farm. The romantic scenes between Calhoun and Miss Simmons should appeal to the distaffers and the violent moments between Calhoun and McNally should more than satisfy the male movie-goers.

The film was written by Casey Robinson, who penned "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" and directed by veteran John Farrow. Reviewer's rating: good suspense yarn. Adult classification. (Bill Diehl)

3 Events Added for Art Week

Dorr D. Ingersoll, Atlanta artist and Georgia chairman for American Art Week, Wednesday added three scheduled events to the annual week-long observance which she said was the "best the state has ever had."

Added events are a citywide exhibit of paintings and crafts in East Point and exhibits at the Clarkston Woman's Club and the Tucker Woman's Club.

The East Point show opens Friday for a three-day stand in Summer Park Recreation Center. Ann Fitzgerald is chairman. The Clarkston exhibit, featuring paintings by local artists will be Saturday and the show in Tucker Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bishop are serving as chairmen of the Clarkston project and Mrs. Winnie Collins has arranged the Tucker exhibit, which will be highlighted by a display of puppets.

Mrs. Ingersoll pointed out that more than 60 communities in the state are participating in art week, which continues through Sunday.

Quarrel Was Motive, Sheppard Jury Told

close that this defendant and Marilyn quarreled over the activities of Dr. Samuel Sheppard with other women — and that's the reason she was killed."

Mahon claimed Sheppard lived briefly with the 24-year-old Miss Hayes, a former technician in the Osteopathic Hospital in Bay Village, and that they talked together of divorce and marriage. Miss Hayes is scheduled later as a star state witness at the trial.

In a 90-minute speech attorney Fred W. Garmone replied for the defense:

"Sam Sheppard was a man who possessed a gentle nature. As this picture unfolds, there will be no person whose testimony will dispute that the man who possesses the nature this young man does cannot have the finger of murder in the first degree pointed at him."

TENDERNESS

"Sam Sheppard was a man who devoted his life to saving life — not a man who would take life from another."

"We will by proper proof satisfy you that he loved Marilyn Sheppard with great tenderness. We will offer on that subject testimony, regardless of what may be said by Susan Hayes or any other person, that there was tenderness in the love Sam Sheppard had for his wife Marilyn."

Mahon, tall, white-haired and stoop shouldered, deliberately underplayed his role as he talked to the jury in a quiet, gently forceful tone. He ridiculed Sheppard's own story that an intruder bent on robbery invaded his home.

"No one was in that home to commit a burglary," Mahon declared, "but that was arranged to deceive people."

He referred to the lack of serious disarrangement in the Sheppard home and to the fact that the osteopath's watch and other possessions were found abandoned outside the house.

"A reasonable interpretation," Mahon told the jury, "will show clearly that all this was a set-up with the intention of deceiving people that a marauder had been about. A burglar just doesn't do that, ladies and gentlemen."

Mahon said Sheppard met Susan Hayes in his own hospital.

"Evidence will disclose," the prosecutor continued, "this defendant became infatuated with Susan Hayes and they would meet from time to time. She would go out on calls with him, and their relations were very close and intimate."

Mahon described how Sheppard and his wife separated in Los Angeles last March when he went there for post-graduate work. Marilyn went to Monterey, Calif., while Sheppard stayed in Los Angeles at the home of a friend and fellow osteopath, Dr. Arthur Miller.

POINTS FINGER

"The evidence will disclose," Mahon went on, "that while she was up there that this defendant contacted Susan Hayes—even before Marilyn was gone to Monterey. He started to live with Susan at the home of Dr. Miller and remained at the home of Dr. Miller, occupying the same room with Susan Hayes for several days."

Mahon then mentioned Sheppard's return to Cleveland with Susan remaining on the West Coast and said: "He and Susan Hayes corresponded. They had talked together of divorce and marriage. They corresponded in endearing terms."

Turning on the defendant, Mahon pointed a finger straight at Sheppard as he blamed his philanthropy for the slaying. Sheppard stared at him unflinchingly.

Garmone, countering for the defense, reminded the jury in connection with the reported illicit affair:

"With your acceptance of your responsibility as jurors in this matter, you said to Sam Sheppard that you would not permit yourselves to become prejudiced, would

LAGRANGE, Nov. 4—Two Greenville residents were killed Thursday when the convertible in which they were riding ran off the road and overturned on the Upper Big Springs road two and a half miles east of LaGrange, in Troup County, the state patrol said.

They were identified as Mrs. Florence Webb, 51, the driver, and John Thomas Humphries, 70, both of Rte. 2, Greenville.

not permit yourselves any ill will because of that portion or that chapter in Sam Sheppard's life."

He described the defendant as a good husband and a good father to his seven-year-old son, Chip. Garmone added:

"You will be given, by proper proof, testimony that will satisfy you that the last four months of the married life of Marilyn Sheppard and Dr. Sam Sheppard were the happiest."

Garmone said Sheppard bought a home and put it in his wife's name, took out heavy insurance with Marilyn and their son Chip as beneficiaries, and turned over his salary checks to his wife.

The defense lawyer concluded his speech to the jury by declaring: "The entire investigation conducted in the case of the state of Ohio vs. Sam Sheppard was done with one thought—not a desire to do justice, but with a desire to defeat it."

Democrats Offer Note of Harmony; George Likely Senate Pro Tempore

stand at 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and Independent Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon. Sen. Morse has promised to vote with the Democrats in organization of the Senate.

The hair-breadth edge gained by the Democrats has been interpreted by political experts to mean no major shift from the present conservative coalition.

But Democrats will now be able to take all committee chairmanships away from Republicans.

PICK OF COMMITTEES

George is in line for either the Finance or the Foreign Relations committee chairmanships. He told The Constitution he was presently inclined to accept the Foreign Relations post but had not definitely made up his mind. "I want to discuss the matter with party leaders in the Senate," he explained.

If George accepts the Foreign Relations post, he will open the way for Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia to succeed to the influential Finance chairmanship. If George takes Finance, 87-year-old Sen. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island would become chairman of Foreign Relations.

Similarly Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia will return to his old position as chairman of the powerful Armed Services Committee, and Georgia's Rep. Carl Vinson of Milledgeville, dean of the state delegation, would return as chairman of the House

Armed Services Committee.

The overturn will mean the ousting of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin from the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations helm and Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana from the Internal Security Subcommittee chairmanship. Johnson has indicated he will favor fewer spectacular investigations and more work on legislation.

Morse, who was snubbed by the GOP after his support of Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson in the 1952 presidential campaign, is slated to regain membership on the Labor and Armed Services committees.

Johnson and Rayburn telegraphed the President on Oct. 9, saying that if Democrats won control of Congress, they would not oppose him on a partisan basis.

DESIRABLE FEATURES

At a news conference Thursday in Austin, Tex., Johnson said the Democrats will not "obstruct for the sake of obstruction." He added, "The desirable features of the President's program will be much more readily enacted by this new Democratic Congress than they would have been by the Republican Congress he wanted."

The show of harmony by leading Democrats did not mean they would not seek changes in present legislation, however. While assuring support of a bi-partisan foreign policy and a strong defense program, Johnson said Democrats would seek "improvement in the labor law, improvements that will be fair to both labor and management and permit each to operate in the status of dignity to which they are entitled. They will also attack the economic problems of our country and try to unleash the forces that will bring us to greater heights of prosperity."

DIXON-YATES PACT

Johnson promised a "vast coordinated reclamation plan" for the West and a "thoroughly ventilated" of the Dixon-Yates Contract.

Rayburn, said Thursday via telephone from Bonham, Tex., that House Democrats were going to put under critical review minimum tax and farm policies of the Eisenhower administration and "the whole giveaway program" of the Republicans.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC), who will become chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, promised a "vigorous" effort to repeal the Republican-sponsored flexible farm price support formula and restore full 90 per cent of parity.

Republicans in the Agriculture Department, however, were jubilant at what they considered a farm belt endorsement of flexible supports.

Come in and See the All-New '55 Pontiac with the 180-HP Strato-Streak V-8!

INCOMPARABLE ALL-NEW ROADABILITY

Pontiac's all-new roadability starts with a long wheelbase. Its all-new chassis provides a heavier, more rigid frame; all-new front suspension and new wider-spaced parallel rear springs provide road-hugging stability so greatly advanced you'll notice the welcome difference the moment you take your first drive. You'll get a lullaby ride on any road in this big, solid car with every worthwhile comfort advancement of the year.

SENSATIONAL ALL-NEW STRATO-STREAK V-8 PERFORMANCE

Here's an engine so responsive, so alert it almost anticipates your demands for getaway and passing power. But most important, here's an engine so thoroughly proved that it will make even more enviable Pontiac's famed reputation for dependability, long life and economy. Three and a half million miles of testing stand back of Pontiac's all-new perfected 180-horsepower Strato-Streak V-8.

DARING ALL-NEW FUTURE-FASHIONED STYLING

Pontiac's brilliant new styling steps you years ahead in a single bold move. From its "dream car" front end with its twin silver streaks to the new upswep rear fenders, Pontiac for 1955 is far and away the most distinctive car on the road. Its long, low lines are a visual complement to its spectacular performance.

BEAUTIFUL ALL-NEW PANORAMIC BODY

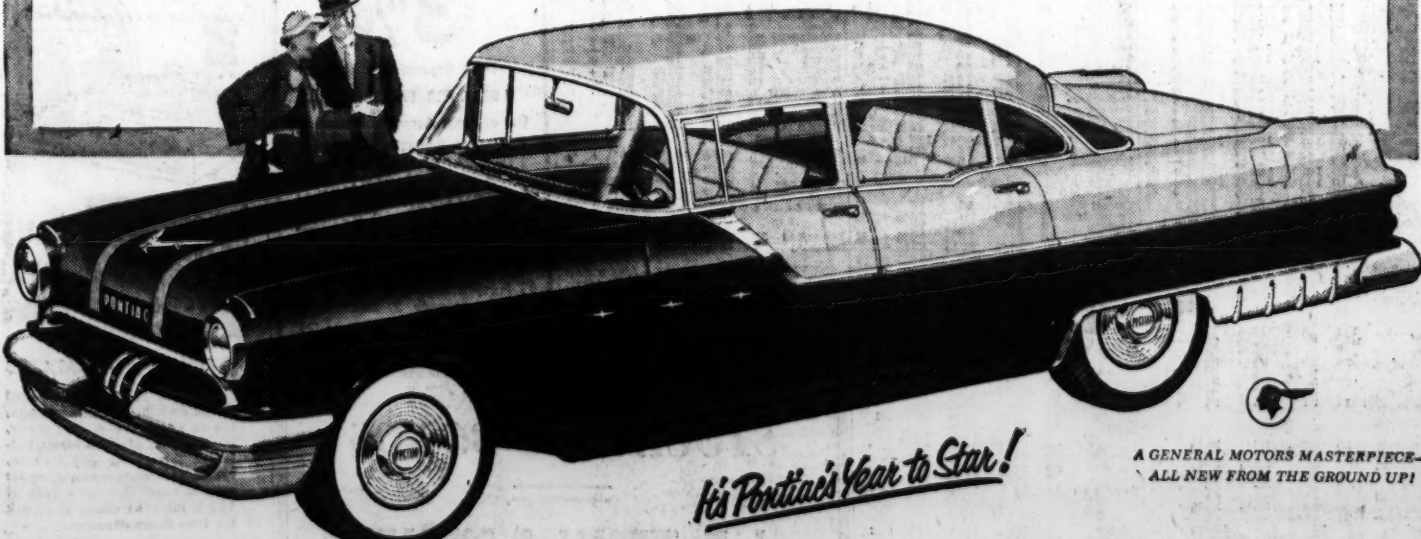

Lower, wider, roomier, Pontiac's new panoramic body provides sweeping vision all around, with new panoramic windshield and extra-wide rear window. Front seats are three inches wider and, despite a roof line almost three inches lower, there is no sacrifice of head room. Underneath this dramatic new beauty and comfort is the rugged safety and quiet of incomparable Fisher Body construction.

ALL-NEW HANDLING EASE

New vertical king-pin front suspension and new recirculating ball steering let you take corners and curves almost effortlessly—cushion road shock so effectively you experience a new driving sensation. Bigger brakes stop you surely and quickly.

EXCITING ALL-NEW INTERIORS

Never has a car prided so low extended so exciting an invitation to relax amid so much luxury. Pontiac's all-new interiors—with fabrics and leather keyed to the Vogue Two-Tone body colors—are unsurpassed for beauty at any price.

It's Pontiac's Year to Star!

UNEMPLOYMENT

MILLIONS OF PERSONS

UNEMPLOYMENT—The nation's unemployment dipped slightly in September to 3,099,000 from the August level of 3,245,000.

Trading was quite heavy at the close of the day, with a bull market boom today that sent it to a new 25-year high.

It was the second post-election rally of magnitude, and gains of 1 to around 3 points were common with some pushing out to 6 points in key areas of the market.

Trading was quite heavy at the close of the day, with a bull market boom today that sent it to a new 25-year high.

Yesterday, when the market made its best single day's gain of the last 15 years, the total came to 2,700,000 shares.

ADVANCING STEADILY

The market for nearly 15 months has been advancing steadily with new 25-year high marks quite common since mid-year.

About six weeks ago, a sort of consolidation period commenced. The market started a series of backing and filling maneuvers that followed a severe decline in August.

Last week the market went into its worst weekly decline of the past 14 months. Then came the election.

Wall Street had feared a Democratic sweep. Instead, they were surprised at what they called a better-than-expected Republican showing. Wednesday's surge ahead carried the market within striking distance of a new high.

Today the market started out strong, broke through all resistance, and soared ahead to new peaks. The steels were among the leaders with substantial gains.

They had a lot of help and shared leadership at times with the motors, rubbers, oils, and railroads, and heavy gains were rolled up by mail order houses, farm implements, aircrafts, radio-television, coppers, a few chemicals, airlines, movie issues, and the building materials.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks stepped ahead $1.80 to $134.10, the highest point that the average has reached since Oct. 17, 1929, when it stood at $142.90. Yesterday it was up $2.60.

Cotton Lower; Hedge Selling

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 20 to 75 cents a bale lower today. The market was under pressure of liquidation and hedging from the start. The selling gathered momentum and carried closing prices down to new lows for the day.

Traders viewed the near term cotton situation pessimistically, citing higher crop ideas and the relatively slow movement of cotton to the government loan so far.

Loan withdrawals have picked up, adding to the free market supply. Producers are still selling a substantial amount of cotton at the primary spot markets, even though average prices are about 1/2 cent a pound above the average loans for those points.

On the other hand, one observer who just returned from Texas today said that producers in the Lubbock area have stepped-up loan entries sharply, because of sagging prices.

Tubman To Arrive Here Today

William Vacanarat Shadrach Tubman, the 18th president of the Republic of Liberia, was scheduled to arrive in Atlanta by special train shortly after midnight Thursday for a two-day visit.

He will be officially welcomed in one of his two private cars on a siding at the east end of Terminal Station by Mayor Hartsfield and Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Dr. Clement, the Liberian President's official host in Atlanta, said he will receive two honorary degrees—one from Atlanta University and one from Morehouse College—at Sister's Chapel at 11 a.m. The ceremony will be attended by students, faculty and trustees of the Negro colleges. President Tubman will spend the afternoon touring the Negro business district on Auburn avenue and will be entertained at a public reception from 8 to 10 p.m. in the chemistry building lounge on the Morehouse campus.

His schedule for Saturday will include a tour of Westside Negro housing and schools and, if the weather permits, the Xavier University-Clark College football game at Herndon Stadium during the afternoon.

President Tubman has expressed a desire to visit Atlanta because his mother, Elizabeth Rebecca Barnes Tubman, emigrated from here to Liberia in 1872.

Long Runway Planned for Fulton Airport

A 900-foot extension of the northwest-southeast runway at Fulton County Airport is being planned to eliminate cross-wind landings there by twin-engine aircraft.

Airport Manager Dick Aderhold said Thursday plans are being prepared for the $250,000 improvement and will be submitted to civil aeronautics authorities by Dec. 31.

CAA approval of the plans will assure the airport of a $125,000 federal appropriation for the improvement. The county recently was notified of a grant, conditional on approval of the plans, Aderhold explained.

The project will include grading, paving, drainage, grassing and lighting of the runway extension.

The extension is being made as part of a seven-year master plan for improvement of the airport.

Worker Critically Injured In Tumble, Escapes Wires

A 30-year-old construction worker was critically injured Thursday when he attempted to leap out of the way of a free-swinging hoist boom and landed on the ground amid a tangle of high-voltage wires, police said.

The worker, Hamilton Smith, of 495 Courtland St., NE, was admitted to Grady Hospital with a probable skull fracture and brain injury, Pt. F. O. Bishop and Vernon West said. Patrolmen said Smith escaped injury from the high voltage wires.

Smith was injured shortly after noon at Ponce de Leon Place and Virginia Avenue, NE, where heavy steel girders were being unloaded from a truck to be used in constructing an addition to the Virginia Avenue Baptist Church.

C. Chastain, employee of H. S. Weatherby, Inc., 2706 Beacon Hill Blvd., said the brakes gave away or a crane he was operating. Chastain said he attempted to lower the girder he was removing from a truck, but the boom swung free, knocking down a dozen high tension wires.

Smith, who was standing on the back of the truck, attempted to leap to safety, but fell, striking his head on the ground as the wires fell, the patrolmen said. The truck driver, W. W. Pridmore of Birmingham, Ala., who was sitting in the cab of the truck, leaped over the wires to safety.

The patrolmen, who were cruising nearby, said the broken wires set off a series of explosions "like

4 in Family Charged With Assault On Police Must Go to Church 2 Years

The "fighting Sullivans," who were charged with assaulting two police officers who were attempting to arrest a member of their family, must regularly attend church and Sunday School for the next two years under terms of a Fulton Criminal Court order.

Four members of the family, each charged with two counts of assault and battery on Atlanta officers J. P. Upchurch Jr. and O. E. Piper, were given 12-month probated sentences on each count by Criminal Judge Charles Bruce.

The officers said they were assaulted by the four when they went to the Sullivan home at 616 Fairburn Pl., NW, on Oct. 10. The charges were booked against Mrs. Lena Sullivan, 38; her husband, Charles Sr., 46, and their sons, Charles Jr., 19, and Herman, 17.

Ruling that he believed a period of supervised probation would be beneficial, Judge Bruce also ordered the Sullivans to follow a 9 p.m. curfew, not to drink any intoxicants, and not to associate with persons of disreputable character.

barn on Virginia avenue, overheard the explosions and rushed to the scene.

The accident disrupted electrical service in the area for approximately two hours, police said.

$375,000 Set Up in Budget For Renovating Courthouse

The Fulton County Budget Commission Thursday set up $375,000 in the 1955 budget for remodeling and re-equipping portions of the courthouse.

The commission Thursday set up has spent $121,000 on the project this year. The group, which must present the 1955 budget to the commissioners Nov. 17, also set budgets of $18,000 each for the Municipal Planning and Adjustment Board and the Municipal Planning Commission.

The Board of County Commissioners voted Wednesday to ask bids on the next remodeling phase covering the courthouse basement and first floor. Cost was estimated at $250,000.

The budget commission also set up $200,000 to pay for continued development of the Chattahoochee industrial project. The funds will pay for additional sewage, streets, drainage and grading. The county

PRONOUNCING NAMES OF THINGS IS PART OF SPEECH TRAINING
Mrs. Asbury, L., instructs Bernard. Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Harris observe

Reward: A Snaggle-Toothed Grin

By MARY DENMARK

Two years ago the only words that Bernard Banks could say were "wa, wa."

Now Bernard can talk, and next year he will start school in the second grade.

This child's progress is, in a sense, the story of the Pre-School Speech Clinic for Negro Children.

Established two years ago by a group of Atlanta women who realized that there was no place in the South where a Negro child could obtain speech training, the school, which started with 12 children and one teacher, now has an enrollment of 55 and a staff of three teachers.

FRUSTRATION
Seven-year-old Bernard is one of the original 12. Mrs. Irene Asbury, head teacher, says that in September, 1952, the boy "was a very confused and frustrated youngster, unable to follow commands or speak language of the simplest sort."

First-year speech therapy included learning speech sounds, words and then sentences. His vocabulary increased rapidly.

Bernard's personality changed, too. Mrs. Asbury said that at first he was a rather unhappy child and had "an indifferent expression on his face."

After a few months in the school he began to play with the other boys. Now, although he is a little shy around strangers, he's completely at ease with his classmates, and a big snaggle-toothed grin is a permanent fixture.

Since the school offers conventional school studies as well as speech training, Bernard is learning reading, arithmetic, drawing and other subjects on the second grade level; thus, when he enters public school he will be able to compete with his classmates.

PUBLIC SCHOOL
Of the original group of students, six are now in public schools and Mrs. Asbury says, are "doing fine with no problems as far as speech is concerned." She expects 12 or 15 more to graduate into public schools during the year.

Mrs. A. DeJongh Franklin and Mrs. Arthur L. Harris, who were instrumental in the organization of the school, emphasized that the school is important not only for teaching the children but also as a training ground for teachers.

These women were among five who, in 1953, spearheaded the organization of the executive committee and board of directors which raised money to support the school for two years.

Included in the budget are funds for one scholarship a year for training teachers to instruct the deaf.

All this week the school has held open house so the public can observe the progress the children have made during the past two years.

Rare Dolls Reigning at Exhibition

By BETTY CARROLLTON

It's a doll's world. Especially around Christmas time.

And Atlanta youngsters got the jump on Saint Nick this week at the Goodwill Industries doll show, to be held through Friday at 28 Broad St.

"Ohs" and "Ahs" seemed to be the mainstay in the vocabulary of the mopet set. They came in droves to view collectors' items from all over the world and dolls that were given a new life by members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Goodwill Industries.

Alice in Wonderland had nothing on the little princesses who trooped by display cases for a glimpse into a world all their own. Adults were sidelined and had to be content to be strictly spectators.

TOP INTEREST

Queen Elizabeth in her Coronation finery attracted the most interest. And members of a Brownie troop could not resist the impulse to peek under her skirts.

A scattering of boys were most interested in the coronation troops. Little Boy Blue, a Dutch boy from the U.N. building in New York, a beef-eater from London Tower, a straw doll from Jamaica caught the attention of boys as well as girls.

"Ladies didn't REALLY wear dresses like that, did they, Mother?" inquired a 6-year-old lass after closely inspecting a collection of French fashion dolls.

These dolls, complete in every detail down to earrings in pierced ears, are from the collection of Mrs. Gene Nardin, 925 Lullwater Parkway, NE. They have bisque heads, kid bodies, carved wood hands and real hair.

Children of pioneer days won the sympathy of one young miss. Her mother pointed to a doll fashioned of corn shucks, explaining these were the only kind of dolls available in early days.

"I'm glad I wasn't a pioneer girl," she decided, "I like Sparkle Plenty better."

WAX DOLL

She approved of a wax doll taken from Kentucky to Iowa in 1860. The doll now belongs to Miss Lenore Harvey, 512 S. McDonough, Decatur.

Two-year-old Jill Irwin was enchanted with all the dolls. Keeping a tight hold on the hand of her older sister, Jo-Ann, she dashed from one display case to another.

Pudgy fingerprint marks on all the display cases testified that many of the young visitors were interested in those dolls they weren't allowed to touch.

Mrs. W. S. Eakin, 1359 Springdale Road, NE, exhibited her collection. A Geisha girl, Stamese dancers and dolls of the different provinces of Italy were included in her group.

A collection of antique dolls, including china heads and early bisques, jointed wooden English cottage dolls, belonging to Mrs. Sidney T. Schell, 2743 Sewell Road, SW, created a lot of interest.

A china doll, with complete wardrobe and tea set of 1912, was loaned by Miss Patsy Eddy, 1138 Oakdale Rd., Northeast.

Miss Carolyn Hinshaw, 2871 N. Hills Drive, NE, exhibited a small doll brought to her from Denmark in 1938, as well as a number of beautifully costumed Mme. Alexander dolls.

Mary Madry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Madry, displayed her collection, including a crude wooden doll brought from Africa by Mrs. Marvin Garrett, a missionary from Atlanta. A group of Chinese, Mexican and Indian dolls, which marked the beginning of Mary's collection, drew comments from visitors. This group was presented to the present owner by Mrs. John M. Wesley, who collected them in her travels. Mrs. Wesley gave the dolls to Mary.

Their Spirited Ancestors— Here Long Before '76

When you start tracing family trees, you're likely to come up with all manner of strange information—plus lots of relatives you didn't even know about.

You may discover that grandpappy was a horse thief or a brother-in-law of the crown prince of England or both.

But you have to be willing to face your forebears if you want to qualify for membership in the Daughters of the American Colonists.

Visiting in Atlanta this week, Mrs. Nathan R. Patterson of Tulsa, Okla., national president of the organization, explained that in order to be eligible for membership in DAC, a woman must trace her ancestry back to people who settled the colonies before 1776.

Mrs. Patterson traces her family back to Edward Rawson, who came to America in 1630. Rawson served 35 years as the first colonial secretary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

DAC members work in veterans' hospitals, place markers at spots of colonial significance and present an award—a silver tray—to the top honor graduate at every Navy and Air Force school for pilots.

"Genealogy is really a big industry with us," Mrs. Patterson said. She went on to say that DAC publishes the results of the genealogical research, and occasionally a member profits from this study by writing money-making historical novels and stories.

DACs, in looking backwards, often find common ancestors. "I'm now called 'cousin' by several people I never knew before," she remarked.

The trip to Atlanta has been very delightful, she said, because for the first time her husband is accompanying her on her nationwide travels.

Mrs. Patterson was honor guest Wednesday at a tea given by Mrs. Robert E. Latta, 365 Peachtree Battle Ave., NW. Friday she will be speaker at a Southern luncheon given by the Georgia Society, DAC.

Celestine Sibley Liberia Facts Now Revealed

Tell me I'm not on top of the news. Here comes William Vacanarat Shadrach Tubman, president of Liberia, to town, and guess who's all primed to tell you all about Liberia!

Yep, me.

Interested in history? Liberia was founded in 1822 by the American Colonization Society, declared her independence as a free and sovereign state on July 26, 1847, and patterned her government after ours.

Do you know where Liberia is? Glib as a sixth-grade geography student I'll tell you: "Liberia is situated on the west coast of Africa, north of the equator, between Sierra Leone and the French Ivory Coast. Its area is 43,000 square miles, comparable in size to the state of Ohio."

Want to know about rainfall? Liberia has two seasons, the rainy from April through October with a total rainfall of about 180 inches along the seacoast and 70 inches farther inland.

The dry season runs from November through March and the temperature averages from 80 to 85 degrees the year round.

Chief products? That's easy—bananas, cocoa, coffee, cola nuts, iron ore, rubber, timber and piassava. (Piassava? Well, surely you won't mind looking up a few things yourself!)

Liberia has a modern harbor—the Free Port of Monrovia, opened in 1948—and a big airport located 50 miles from Monrovia.

Every Sunday school child can probably tell you something about Liberia because of the American missionaries there. The country has a lot of churches—Protestant, Catholic and Mohammedan—and most of the local churches maintain schools for the education of the young.

As for living conditions, my information says nothing about the number of television stations or the quantities of wall-to-wall carpeting and picture windows, but they must eat well, judging by some of the recipes which have fallen into my hands.

C. Letecia Blaine of Monrovia assembled a cookbook, apparently in celebration of the country's centennial some years ago, and if you've got some nice breadfruit on hand I'll be glad to pass on to you her recipe for breadfruit biscuits.

There's also a fine salad which calls for three cups of cubed breadfruit but we'd better skip that, unless you can get your local supermarket manager to stock a little breadfruit.

Their sweet potato pudding must have been taken straight to Liberia from Georgia and their excellency salad . . . well, here's the recipe:

- 1 cup shredded orange
- 1/2 cup cubed cucumber
- 1/2 cup cubed banana
- 1/4 cup crushed peanuts
- Salt, mayonnaise

Pare and shred enough bittersweet oranges to make one cup. Pare and cube enough bananas; remove seedcore. (That's what it says but maybe Liberia bananas are different.) Pare cucumbers in the same way. Mix ingredients and stir gently with a fork. Add salt and mayonnaise to taste just before serving.

Any time we have the president of a foreign land visiting us it's nice to know something about his country. I always say, especially when the embassy has a real active American public relations counsel.

SUIT WITH FRINGE ON TOP—AND BOTTOM
Bloomer Silhouette From California

Dior Doesn't Affect the Beachwear

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4 (U-P)—California still believes in bosoms for the beach, it was revealed today as manufacturers previewed next summer's swim styles for the nation's fashion press.

Though beachwear designers pay lip service to Christian Dior and the battle of the bustline, most of the suits shown today have no diminishing curves.

In some cases the suits have a more covered-up look, with a slightly higher, rounder bosom. But in the majority of styles the bosom still is accented by drapery, winged effects and other exclamation marks.

Fred Cole, glorifier of beach beauties, highlights three new themes in his swim suits for 1955: a new deep, bright blue color, a series of undersea prints for skin divers, and a group of Spanish-inspired suits with a bullfighter flavor.

Also he is manufacturing for U.S. sale the only bathing suit designed by Dior—a demure princess-line suit in nylon with low-placed box pleats and inner boning that extends from bustline to hipline.

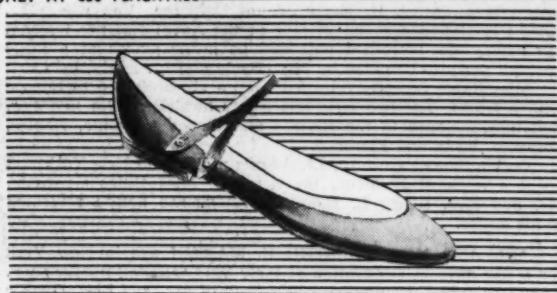

Black assumes importance as a top color for swimwear, in both adult and children's suits for next season, and wool knit mailots will be prominently in the swim.

Most of the suits shown today, including designs by Gantner, Dewesse and Rose Marie Reid in addition to Cole, are one-piece and modest in cut—no Bikinis.

Annie Lou Hardy Lloyd Wrights Here For Weekend Visit

Prominent visitors arriving Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wright of Los Angeles who are the guests of Smythe Gambrell at his Peachtree Battle avenue residence. Mr. Wright, a leading California lawyer, is president of the American Bar Assn. On Friday Mr. Gambrell and his guests will motor to Macon where they will be honor guests at the Law Day festivities at Mercer University. There will be a barbecue at noon, and in the evening Mr. Wright will be principal speaker at the banquet to be held at the Dempsey Hotel as a climax to the day's program.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Wright will be guests of Col. Blake Van Leer in the president's box at the Tech-Tennessee football game. Afterward Mr. Gambrell will be host at a reception at his home, assembling a host of lawyers and their wives to meet the Wrights.

The visitors will board a plane to return to California on Sunday.

MRS. JAY HAMBRIDGE of Rabun Gap will be central figure at a small luncheon at which Mrs. Montague Boyd Sr. will be hostess on Saturday at her home on Habersham road.

Mrs. Hambridge is in the city for an exhibit of hand woven textiles made by the Weavers of Rabun which is on display at the Price Gilbert Library at Georgia Tech until Sunday.

MRS. BURKE HOOD returned Thursday to her home in Columbia, S.C., after a brief visit to Mrs. Arthur H. Deveny on Normandy drive.

ROBERT PHILIPP, internationally known artist, arrived Wednesday from New York to be a guest at the Georgian Terrace for two weeks en route to Dallas, Tex., where he has commissions. Mr. Philipp has just completed a portrait of Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois of the U.S. Air Force which will hang in the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

MISS ANN RIDGE of Langhorne, Pa., who will wed Lt. Francis McKee Adams Jr., son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. F. M. Adams of Atlanta, on Nov. 20, will spend the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Joseph H. Early Jr., at Dahlgren, Va., where Lt. Adams is stationed as an aviator at the Naval Proving Ground.

On Friday the betrothed pair will be honor guests at a large cocktail party to be given by Mrs. Early and Lt. Early, USN.

Miss Ridge recently returned from a six-week trip to Europe with a friend. The two girls had a car awaiting them in Paris, and they motored to the Riviera and thence to Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Siena and Florence.

On his fiancée's return, Lt. Adams met her in New York and spent a week at Bellevue, the home of Miss Ridge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Ridge, in Langhorne before returning to his duties.

MR. AND MRS. CHESTER E. MARTIN are in New York for a few days in celebration of their 32nd wedding anniversary. They will spend the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Arata in Darien, Conn.

MRS. MARY J. HILLIER of New York is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. H. Demere, and her brother, John Ashley Jones, on Fourteenth street. Mrs. Demere recently returned from California where she visited her son, Edward Demere Jr.

A GROUP OF ATLANTA MATRONS who went to Cuba together two years ago held a reunion during the weekend at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Glisson of Decatur on Lake Chatuge near Hiawassee.

The party, who left Friday and returned Sunday, included Mrs. W. B. Willingham, Mrs. Franklin Drake, Mrs. Ernest L. Miller, Mrs. Carl Brannan, Mrs. George L. Hickman, Mrs. W. R. Lassiter, Mrs. S. L. Astin and Mrs. Wofford Medlock. They were joined at the cottage by Mrs. J. C. Lanier of West Point who was also on the Cuban trip.

THE SON BORN TUESDAY to Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hanks Jr. at Georgia Baptist Hospital has been named William T. III. Mrs. Hanks is the former Elma Virginia Slider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elmer Slider.

JUDGE AND MRS. C. W. WORRILL left Tuesday for Warwick, Va., where they had the first glimpse of their new grandson, Jerome Patrick Hammack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry B. Hammack. Judge Worrill will go on to Washington, D.C., but Mrs. Worrill will remain with the Hammacks during his absence.

DAILY GUIDE—The planet Uranus is in harmonious aspect to Venus today so romance is favored. Light entertainment and new ways of entertaining are also part of the picture, with the emphasis on young people, beautiful women, good food, artistic pursuits, good grooming and feminine styles.

Shop for the usual in home decorations, too. Later, plan some artistic recreation, invite a new friend to share a meal, or an old friend to try a new restaurant with you.

Those with birthdays around July 20, Nov. 20, or March 18 should make this an especially happy day. Indeed, the whole weekend can be pleasant for those born on that March date.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SCORPIO! This should be a pleasant day for you, and possibly a romantic one. If you are eligible for marriage, the prospects are for starting a cycle of greater responsibility through discipline and with practical consideration. That may not sound very romantic, but that is what could be behind any romance right now.

For others, domestic issues may have been somewhat hectic, but the way will smooth out in December I'm sure. You can be rewarded next year by greater prestige and publicity, and better business if you took the discipline this year.

Miss Edens Speaks Vows
Mr. and Mrs. Max K. Edens Sr. announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Madeleine Edens, to Garland F. Sailors, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Sailors of Athens, which took place Saturday at College Park.

The bride is a graduate of Roosevelt High School. Mr. Sailors attended the University of Georgia. He was recently discharged from the U.S. Army.

Taylor Baby
Mr. and Mrs. James C. Taylor announce the birth of a son, James Carey Jr., on Thursday at St. Joseph's Infirmary.

Norah Just Barely Became a Cockney

By YOLANDE GWIN
What happens when a cockney plays the part of a cockney in an amateur play?
"I 'ave to practice the accent a lot to play the role," says Norah McNiven, a member of the British Consulate staff here.

Miss McNiven will appear in The Playmakers presentation of "John Loves Mary" Friday and Saturday at the Woman's Club.

"My English is not cockney," says Norah. "There's a saying in England that anyone born within the sound of the Bow Church bells in London's East end is a cockney."

"The stork caught up with my mother who was en route to her native Scotland for my birth. So when I arrived, the bells of Bow Church were ringing and that made me a cockney!"

Miss McNiven will portray the role of Lilly in the play. Lilly is the wife of a GI and is a former night club performer. This point alone will require a lot of rehearsing on the part of Miss McNiven.

After all, a night club entertainer is a far cry from Miss McNiven's real life role in the diplomatic service of the British Empire.

Before she came to Atlanta she was private secretary to the ambassador from Ethiopia in London.

Garbage Fee Rise Considered

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Fulton County and city officials Thursday were deadlocked over a city proposal to increase garbage pick-up charges for unincorporated areas nearly 100 per cent in 1955.

Commission members attended a conference in Mayor Hartsfield's office at which it was decided to cancel the existing contract and to defer adoption of a 1955 contract pending further negotiations and discussions.

Archie Lindsey, commission chairman, and Hartsfield told Fulton County Manager A. E. Fuller and City Sanitary Engineer Stafford Graydon to review costs and attempt to reach an acceptable conclusion.

Graydon contended it cost the city $30 a year per home to provide the sanitary services, which must be furnished by the city under contract with the county under the Plan of Improvement.

At the present time, 1,400 residences in the unincorporated area north of the city pay $18 a year for the service and 211 in unincorporated areas south of the Atlanta city limits pay $14 a year.

Sanitary service costs are collected from those receiving it, but commissioners are reluctant to raise the assessment to Graydon's cost figure.

They proposed that administrative costs be stricken from Graydon's $30 annual cost figure.

New Tax System

A proposed revision of tax payments by Atlanta and Fulton County citizens may save up to one-half the $500,000 annual tax collection costs and produce a tax bill for both governments at the time the return is filed.

Standish Thompson, deputy Fulton County tax commissioner, said Thursday the program is under study and probably will be offered to the 1955 Georgia Legislature for approval.

Under the plan, installment taxes for the two governments would be discontinued, but Atlanta and Fulton payments would be staggered so as to keep payments from falling due at the same time.

City payments would be due from Aug. 15 to Oct. 15 after which it-fas would be issued. Fulton County payments would be permitted from July 1 to Aug. 15 and could be paid without an interest charge up until Oct. 15.

Thompson said the new program contemplates institution of a single tax bill, which was a stipulation of the Plan of Improvement and that plans also are under way to eliminate cost of mailing bills in 1956 by giving citizens a tax bill at the time they file their returns.

5-Points Light Pole

A new four-way light pole will replace the unsightly standard at Five Points, it was said Thursday after Electrical Supt. Dewey Johnson and Mayor Hartsfield conferred. The mayor said he wants a "good looking, artistic" standard located approximately where the recently moved flag pole stood at Five Points.

'Tried by Papers,' Bar Chief Says of Sheppard

By BOB SIBLEY

The Sheppard murder case has been a "trial by newspapers," Loyd Wright, president of the American Bar Assn., said Thursday night in Atlanta.

Wright, a practicing California attorney for 39 years, rapped what he termed "projection of what is coming" in the much-publicized trial.

The bar association president said both the prosecution and defense attorneys in the Sheppard case are guilty of announcing outside of court what they will have the next day.

"The real abuse," Wright declared, "is that many times they don't follow through on their

Farm Parley Told of U.S. Policy Link

Public relations work was called one of the most important factors in the farm population's influence on national policy by Charles A. Sheffield Thursday at the conference of Negro agricultural extension workers being held at the Butler Street YMCA.

Federal Extension Agent Sheffield noted that although farming families make up only an eighth of the U.S. population, they have been able to exert strong influence through organized educational and lobbying work.

Otto Croy, assistant administrator of the Federal Extension Service, spoke on the increased opportunities in extension work made possible by additional funds from the 83rd Congress.

About 100 men and women from 10 Southern states are attending the annual conference, which began Monday. The meetings will end Friday after speeches by Dr. Gladys Gallup of the Federal Extension Service and W. H. Williamson of Tennessee.

300 Masons Honor Whitman, New Grand Master, at Dinner

More than 300 College Park and out-of-town Masons joined in a tribute Thursday night at a testimonial dinner honoring Judge George P. Whitman, newly elected Grand Master of the Masons of the Grand Lodge of Georgia.

A resident of College Park and a member of the College Park lodge, Judge Whitman presides in Fulton County Superior Court. He was elevated to his present position in the Masons last month in Macon where the 1954-55 election of grand master was held.

Guest speaker at the dinner, held in the College Park Auditorium, was the Rev. Henry Collins, a Methodist minister of Columbia, S.C., and Grand Master of the Masons in that state.

Judge Whitman, as Grand Master, will preside over the Grand Lodge of the State of Georgia of which there are 93,000 members.

He is a graduate of the University of Georgia and of the Yale Law School. He is a past master of the College Park lodge, former member of the executive committee of Scottish Rite in Atlanta, a member of the Royal Arch, the Atlanta Commandery Knights Templar, the Yaraab Temple

Blackface Bandit Grabs $45,000

BOSTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—A pistol-wielding robber, his face blackened with makeup, held up a Beacon Street branch of the National Shawmut Bank today and fled with $45,000.

John Kane, assistant manager, told police he was ordered to a teller's cage where Rita Hagen was forced to hand over the money. It was in all denominations.

The bandit was described by employees as about 35 years old, 5 feet 9 and with sandy colored hair.

Competition For Hospital Ruled Out

The state will not be in competition with private physicians when it opens the Eugene Talmadge State Hospital at Augusta, Dr. Edgar R. Pund, president of the Medical College of Georgia, said here Thursday night.

Dr. Pund was guest speaker at the annual scientific meeting of the Fulton County Medical Society at the Academy of Medicine. Patients at the 800-bed hospital would be admitted only if they were referred to the hospital by individual physicians, if policies under consideration for the new medical center are approved, he said.

Emphasis will be on teaching and research, he said. Medical and nursing students would be trained at the hospital under the supervision of the Medical College's faculty, which also will serve as the hospital staff.

Dr. Pund said the hospital will not seek to establish a private clientele of its own. The patients referred to the hospital by independent doctors would be charged on a basis of their ability to pay. He said he hopes to set up an advisory committee of one representative from each of the 10 district medical societies in the state. The members would serve as liaison officials between the private physicians and the hospital.

ED. SULLIVAN

A 2nd Take on MGM 'Blunder'

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Back in 1937, when this reporter was assigned to the coast, the moving picture colony was hooting at MGM's terrific blunder. It seemed that, given the choice of two young girl singers on the studio payroll MGM had released Deanna Durbin. Immediately signed by Universal Pictures, at the insistence of Rufus LeMaire, Deanna made four pictures that grossed $12,000,000.

Her first picture at Universal for Joe Pasternak and Director Henry Koster cost less than $300,000 so you can see that the MGM discard was better than a letter of credit. The Metro blunder was Topic A at every dinner party in Hollywood, that is unless some of the big brass from that studio was on the invited list.

The youngster retained on the MGM payroll was unknown Judy Garland.

As the star of Deanna Durbin continued to send off a shower of sparks that were translated into box office gold, Judy Garland achieved nothing spectacular. Not until "Wizard of Oz" won her the opportunity to sing Harold Arlen's "Over the Rainbow" was MGM's judgment partly vindicated.

Ironically, she left MGM before the studio could have cashed in completely on their faith in her talents. Deanna Durbin, in the meantime, faded completely from view. No young performer ever went up so fast, so far; no youngster ever disappeared from the star ranks with such disconcerting swiftness.

In "The Last Time I Saw Paris" Elizabeth Taylor comes of age as an actress. This sort of maturity as a performer always seems to happen over night but the process is much more gradual than that. A youngster learns his trade slowly. You're not even aware of the strides a young performer makes until, as in Elizabeth's case, you suddenly see it flower before your eyes.

Probably, a bit of living, a lot of heartaches, then motherhood, and now, her happiness with Michael Wilding, is responsible for the poised, sensitive and moving job she turns in in this MGM flicker opposite Van Johnson, Walter Pidgeon and Donna Reed. Whatever the contributing reasons, the net result is completely winning and impressive. And Cary Grant, watching this, must be mighty pleased.

Grant, some years ago, lunched with me after returning from Europe.

"There was a very young and pretty girl aboard the ship," said Grant, "and I swear that she'll be one of the great stars of Hollywood. Her coloring and features are almost incredible. If anyone ever was made for color cameras this is the girl." The youngster who had so impressed Cary was Elizabeth Taylor.

TOPS IN COLOR

'Spectacular' Will Return On Sunday

Comedy and music will be the theme of "Fanfare," the next Max Liebman live color "Spectacular" to be seen on NBC Television and WSB-TV at 7:30 p.m. Sunday with headlines in both phases of entertainment.

Judy Holliday, Steve Allen, Dick Shawn and French comic Jacques Tati will star in this television revue, with Frank Sinatra as special guest attraction.

Miss Holliday will offer a special production number of the George M. Cohan classic, "Give My Regards to Broadway." Then Miss Holliday, Steve Allen and Dick Shawn will offer a rousing rendition of Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band." This trio's singing "Mississippi Mud" on a previous show brought top acclaim from critics.

HOLLYWOOD NUMBER

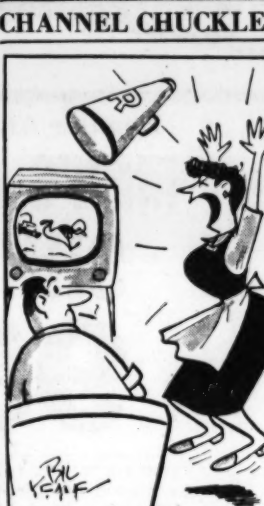

Frank Sinatra, whose singing, acting and comedy talents have made him a show business great, will use all of these abilities in a special number written for him by top Hollywood screen writer Don McGuire. The Sinatra portion of the show will originate in Hollywood.

Sinatra also will sing five hit tunes including "The Gal That Got Away," a switch on the Judy Garland hit, "The Man That Got Away." His other songs will be "Viola for Your Furs," "When I Stop-Loving You," "I Get a Kick Out of You" and "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter."

FRENCH PANTOMIMIST

The great French pantomimist Jacques Tati will offer an original sketch displaying his unique talents in this specialized comedy field. Tati will be making his American television debut, although he is a TV and movie hit in Europe. His comedy movie, "Mr. Hulot's Holiday," currently is being seen throughout the United States.

"Fanfare" will be telecast in color and also will be seen on the nation's standard sets in high-quality black and white.

McGill To Speak At Clinic Today On Church News

The second annual Georgia Church News Clinic will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Main speakers will be Ralph McGill, editor of The Constitution, and Willard A. Pleuthner, New York advertising executive and author of "More Power for Your Church." The clinic is sponsored by the Georgia Press Assn.

In addition to addresses by McGill and Pleuthner, the program will include workshops on specific church promotion problems.

The clinic is free and non-denominational. All ministers, church secretaries and other religious leaders in the state are invited to attend.

Hugh Park's Big Story

The "Case of the County Dictator" will be dramatized on the WSB-TV Big Story program at 9 p.m.

Motion picture and television actor Lawrence Tierney will portray Atlanta Journal reporter Hugh Park. Park has received the Pall Mall $500 Award and a specially mounted bronze plaque for notable service in the field of journalism.

When a fear-ridden tenant farmer disappeared, reporter Park joined authorities in their investigation. His stories aroused interest throughout the section, encouraging witnesses to speak out and bring an end to the rule of a tyrannical overlord who had resorted to murder.

The Big Story is a Bernard J. Procter production. The script was adapted from the pages of The Atlanta Journal by Allan Sloane.

A Rhyme a Day

"There are many good books on child guidance and these are obtainable at low cost. They may not contain the perfect answer to your particular problem but they are stimulating in their approach."—Child article quote.

I'm tired of hearing old folks say . . . "What's wrong with all the kids today . . . we give them everything they need . . . we teach them but they do not heed . . . instructions, and before they're grown . . . they start to act as if they own . . . the world, and what the end will be . . . nobody can foretell or see."

What is the answer? I am sure . . . the perfect answer is obscure . . . it's hidden in so many ways . . . part of it lies in childhood days . . . part of it oftentimes is found . . . where children have been shamed around . . . part of it in the parents' acts . . . and, also, let us face the facts . . . the part that makes the total sum . . . lies in the homes from which they come.

How many children of today . . . have ever heard their mama pray . . . or heard the old man testify . . . to faith in "mansions in the sky" . . . or listened to the "grace" he said . . . before they broke the daily bread . . . there may be some but they are few . . . and maybe parents should review . . . these stubborn facts before they look . . . for answers in some modern book . . . for there's a Book that's ages old . . . with illustrations, manifold . . . and these combined with razor straps . . . provide the remedy, perhaps.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

 South West North East
 2 spades Pass 3 hearts Pass
 4 clubs Pass 4 hearts Pass
 4 spades Pass 5 hearts Pass
 6 clubs Pass 6 hearts Pass
 7 clubs Double Pass
 Pass

Opening lead: Nine of diamonds.

The bidding sequence set forth above would more appropriately accompany a Charles Addams illustration. It came to me in a recent mailing which should, perhaps, have been directed to the Ripley desk. The first of a series of questions had to do with the soundness of the opening bid of two spades.

On this point I took no firm position, though I pointed out that it was not my favorite type of demand bid. The suits are not very robust and if partner's values are primarily in the hearts, misfit trouble is bound to set in. But, assuming the two spade bid to be sound we are called upon to determine the propriety of the subsequent bidding. North's response of three hearts is natural and when South bids four clubs a rebid of the hearts is in order, though most players would have preferred a jump rebid to describe the nature of the suit. When North bids four hearts, surely South should have checked out of the picture. Since North was unable to show a preference for South's first suit, that could hardly be the best place to play the hand. North continued to five hearts and now came the museum piece.

The six club bid strikes us as the season's highwater mark in futility. South seems to have assumed that North's hearing air was completely out of order. The rhythm was contagious and North went on to six hearts. Even the double at this point did not put an end to South's activities. At seven clubs North gave up out of sheer exhaustion and when the pieces were assembled South had gone down four tricks for a 1,100 point set.

To some this story may appear to be lacking in credibility to such an extent that it is not newsworthy. I should like to point out that sequences of this type are not as uncommon as you might suspect. Give some players a two-suited hand and the contract is not for sale. Not enough of these players realize, in cases of misfits, the player with the high cards should subordinate other words, no one should work when the job aggravates his condition or endangers life. The final say so depends upon the physician who is acquainted with the patient's heart status and the type of work he does.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE E. VANDELLEN

It is not always easy to determine how much physical and emotional stress the heart can take except through judgment acquired via experience. There are no infallible tests.

During the past few years, the problem has been tackled by a number of rehabilitation centers conducting work classification units. Questionable cases are examined to determine what the patient can safely do. Rehabilitation of the fearful also is attempted.

The completely recovered man who has not worked for two or more years after his coronary is difficult to rehabilitate. Best results are obtained when carefully supervised shop work can be done.

The number of working hours is increased gradually until the patient attains a full schedule. When this stage is reached, 30 per cent are able to find suitable work in industry.

White collar workers are not exempt from problems along this line as heavy responsibilities and strong emotions have as much effect upon the output of the heart as does physical exertion. The housewife also must be considered. Regardless of occupation, the victim must conform to a model existence with adequate rest and dietary habits that keep the weight down. Peace of mind is a cheap but valuable aid.

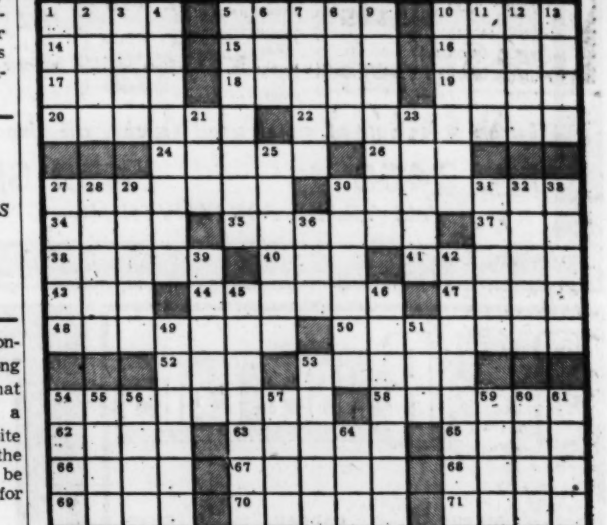

Don't Vegetate After a Coronary

Fear causes much disability in heart trouble, particularly among those who have recovered sufficiently from an attack of coronary thrombosis to resume normal activities. In such instances, the flesh is willing but the spirit is afraid the old ticker is not strong enough to take it. This explains, the saying, "Fear kills more quickly than the heart does."

World War II taught us that heart patients are reemployable and could do a day's work without harm to themselves or their fellow employees. Furthermore, a sedentary position is not essential; many become active in industries such as shipbuilding, automobile, farm equipment, pharmaceuticals, public utilities, photography, and other industries.

Since then, considerable research has been done on employment of the cardiac and we know now that men and women who return to work live longer than do the cardiac "cripples" who are forced through anxiety to vegetate at home. In one group of 200 such individuals, 75 per cent returned to work.

But this does not mean that every victim of coronary thrombosis is capable of working. We refer only to patients who have recovered and are not troubled with residual pain, rapid heart beat, or shortness of breath. In

Pay Boost Bill on Top, Davis Says

A bill providing pay raises for federal government workers will be among the first to go before the 84th Congress when it convenes in January, newly re-elected Rep. James C. Davis told federal workers here Thursday night.

Rep. Davis was main speaker at the first big get-together of the newly organized Greater Atlanta Area Council of American Federation of Government Employees Lodges. The banquet at the YWCA highlighted Greater Atlanta Civil Service Week, so designated by Mayor Hartsfield to honor some 20,000 federal workers in the area.

"I think," Rep. Davis told the government workers, "we can all look forward to the new Congress with a great deal of optimism. I, naturally, feel the Democratic party is better qualified to give the nation the kind of legislation it needs."

The Fifth District congressman emphasized he thinks the Democrats have a "better understanding of the needs and a more sympathetic approach to the problems" of government workers. He predicted a bill to raise their pay will be "one of the earliest" to be acted on by the new Congress.

Rep. Davis was introduced by the national president of AFGE, James A. Campbell of Washington. With him at the speakers' table was Henrietta Olding, national secretary-treasurer.

Miss Olding announced the election of Orle E. Myers of Lithuania as new national vice president of the organization from the Fifth District. Myers, who took his oath of office at the dinner, is retired regional director of Civil Service.

William J. Barfield is chairman of the Greater Atlanta Council of AFGE, a labor union that is unique in that its by-laws prohibit strikes.

Joanne, With Mother, Reads After Operation

1 Magnet Lifts Another From Girl's Tummy

A magnet removed a magnet from a 4-year-old girl's stomach here Thursday.

Joanne Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cramer of 799 Rosewood Rd., swallowed a piece of straight metal about three inches long and half an inch wide. It was located by X-rays at Ponce de Leon Infirmary.

Joanne was placed under an anesthetic and a magnet attached to a rubber tube was passed into her stomach. The magnet brought up the foreign object—a toy magnet with which Joanne had been amusing herself.

Mechanic Wins Citation for Saving Worker

Edward J. Carter, auto mechanic at Atlanta General Depot, has been cited by the quarter-master general for saving the life of fellow worker Harold J. Wallace.

Carter, last April 6, saved Wallace from being crushed between two amphibian "Ducks" from which the men were removing wheels.

The citation, presented by Depot Commander Brig. Gen. A. W. Beeman, included a salary raise.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY REPORT

The Growing Threat Of Youth in Crime

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles on juvenile delinquency in the Atlanta area.

By ANNE GOWEN

Juvenile delinquency, like the times, has changed—but not for the better.

This is the opinion of Judge W. W. Woolfolk, head of Fulton County's juvenile court.

There are more sex crimes and more varied forms. Child burglars have learned new techniques and police have a hard time distinguishing their "jobs" from those of older professionals.

Teenagers spend hours in parked cars. They might better spend the evening at home, but the small living rooms of modern houses are usually full of family, leaving no room for young romance.

There is a boy in the county juvenile detention room now who watched young girls sashay through Grant Park in skin-tight shorts, lost control of himself and attacked a six-year-old girl.

The automobile furnishes the juvenile delinquent with something to steal for thrills, a way to get from his community to roadhouses and less desirable places, and to seclusion for experiments with sex, the judge pointed out.

SMUTTY LITERATURE

Pornographic pictures and literature come into the hands of children, often with distressing results, he said.

Television, he said, keeps some youngsters out of trouble but suggests trouble to others.

This week a 10-year-old boy was placed on probation for shooting buckshot at one of his playmates. The boys had been watching a gangster show on TV and decided to replay the capture scene.

The "cop" grabbed a loaded shotgun and fired it at the escaping "robber." Lucky for the "robber," the range was long and the pellets didn't go deep.

Some crime magazines, comic books, movies and TV shows are inadvertently teaching susceptible children professional criminal methods, the judge said.

LIKE THE PROS

"Juvenile burglaries, which used to be easy to spot, are now the biggest pain the police have," he said.

Instead of simply breaking a ground-floor window youngsters now jimmy locks, tunnel under buildings and climb in through skylights, the judge said.

These factors in modern life have changed the pattern of juvenile delinquency but not the basic causes of it, the judge said.

The youngster who gets into trouble, now as always, usually lacks the security of a stable home, affection from the people he knows best, recognition of his contemporaries or opportunity for wholesome new experiences.

"Home ties are looser now and there is less constructive responsible activity available to children. So some of them turn to delinquency—and then later to crime," Judge Woolfolk said.

Dr. Joachim Wach, in Atlanta for a lecture series at Emory University, said clergymen are badly needed but that more and more young men are rising to the need.

A German-born Episcopalian, Dr. Wach said this is particularly true of the Methodist Church.

False Claim Laid to Victim Of Ice Pick

After six months of investigation, homicide detectives Thursday arraigned the victim of an ice pick attack in Municipal Court.

Identified as Joseph Woodward, 40, of 1179 Welch St., SW, he was fined $50 or 30 days in the city prison farm on charges of making a false complaint to police.

Dets. J. W. Ellington and H. E. Burdett explained they received a call May 15 to Woodward's home and found that he had been stabbed with an ice pick. They quoted Woodward as saying he was stabbed while trying to separate two men who were fighting.

When they located the two men Woodward had disappeared, detectives said. They added the two denied fighting or even seeing Woodward that day.

Judge Luke Arnold asked Woodward what happened.

"I was eating breakfast and when I got through and got up to go somebody said 'What's that on your back?'" Woodward replied. "I felt back there and it was an ice pick."

Detectives said the ice pick was firmly embedded in Woodward's spine and required surgery at Grady Hospital before it could be removed. He did not explain how he was stabbed, court attaches said.

Arnold said: "$50 or 30 days."

For One or One Hundred

Dinner Should Be An Occasion

By JEANNE HIGGINS

Constitution Food Editor

Roll out the red carpet when you're having yourself to dinner.

Career girls who live alone, housewives at home for lunch, bachelors and husbands who now and then batch often accept the challenge of dinner for one—and make it an occasion.

Between inviting in guests and having dinner with friends, Anne Poland, 710 Peachtree, N.E., takes time to be her own guinea pig.

Anne experiments with every meal so that each one is different and outstanding without requiring long-range preparation. "Sour cream is the greatest thing that's happened to cooking," Anne says.

It's her stand-by in salad dressings and fruit desserts. Mixed with brown sugar it tops off strawberries or green grapes for the gayest kind of dessert.

What's simpler to do than this one from Anne's collection. (And it's especially recommended to those who have distaste for spinach.) Mix chopped spinach with mushroom soup and chopped almonds. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese on top and bake in an individual casserole.

Another hint from Anne: Sauté mushrooms in butter. Sprinkle with flour. Stir in gradually sour cream (one cup cream to one pound mushrooms). Season with salt, paprika and marjoram. Bring to a boil and serve over toast.

Chicken is a good stand-by for one. Buy just the number of pieces needed. Sauté in olive oil and garlic. Drain. Pour in wine and rosemary. Let simmer for a very few minutes. This is also one of Anne's favorites for dinner for one. With increased proportions it's ready for guests.

Anne suggests baking lamb, turkey, and ham when guests are coming. Else freeze meat in individual portions for future use and to avoid tiresome leftovers.

Use slices of turkey, home baked or from the delicatessen like this.

TURKEY SUPREME

1/2 package frozen asparagus spears
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash Tabasco sauce
1/2 cup grated sharp American cheese
2 thin slices cooked turkey
Chopped or ready-diced almonds

(1) Cook asparagus as directed on package. (2) Melt butter and blend in flour. (3) Add milk, salt, Worcestershire and Tabasco sauces, and cook and stir until thickened. (4) Blend in cheese and stir until it melts. (5) Arrange drained asparagus on flat baking dish. (6) Top with sliced turkey. Pour cheese sauce over all. (7) Place under broiler and heat until lightly browned. Sprinkle with almonds and serve at once.

"A meal in a basket" is the fried foods haven. And on a tray it goes anywhere in the house.

A soufflé, sets well on a tray. Flavor with fish, vegetables, cheese or meat. Serve alongside a tossed vegetable salad. There's no better one-dish meal and it's quite simple for an individual serving.

ASPARAGUS SOUFFLE

1/2 can condensed asparagus soup
1/2 cup grated cheese
2 well beaten egg yolks
2 stiff-beaten egg whites

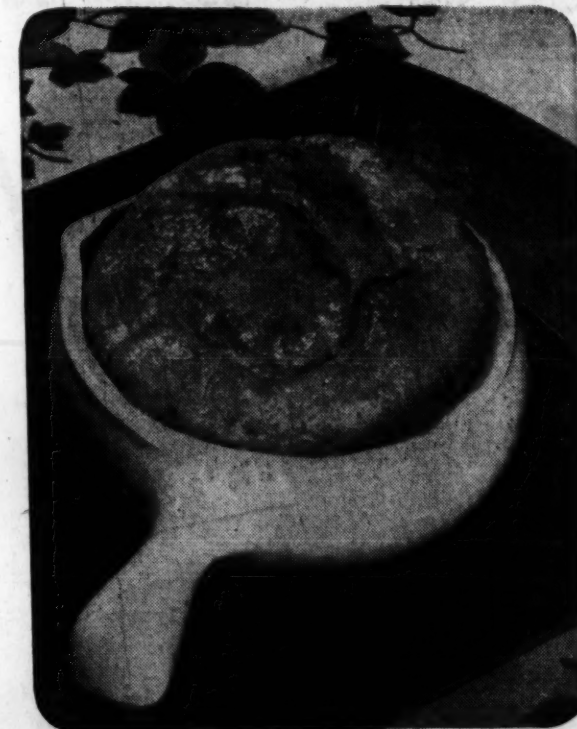

(1) Heat soup and cheese over hot water, stirring till cheese is melted. Remove from heat. (2) Add a little soup mixture to beaten egg yolks; stir into remaining soup. (3) Carefully fold in egg whites. (4) Pour into 1 1/4-quart casserole. (5) Place in shallow pan, pour water into pan till one inch deep. (6) Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) approximately 40 minutes.

Party Fare for Teen Aged

Any teenager who wants to make a real hit with the crowd will have fun making party pickle pizzas. This recipe is so easy to follow, takes so little time to make and is so good to eat that it's sure to become a big favorite.

PARTY PICKLE PIZZAS

4 English muffins
Olive or salad oil
1 No. 2 1/2 can tomatoes, well drained
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon oregano
2 1/2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
4 dill pickles
1/4 pound Mozzarella cheese, thinly sliced

Cut muffins in half. Brush cut sides lightly with oil. Combine tomatoes, salt and sugar. Place some of tomato mixture on each muffin half. Sprinkle with oregano and Parmesan cheese. Cut each dill pickle in 4 lengthwise slices. Place 2 slices on each muffin half. Top with Mozzarella cheese. Broil 3-4 inches from source of heat 5-10 minutes, or until cheese is melted.

New Treat
Of Golden
Tassies

There's a new recipe making a hit over the nation. Introduced at the recent food editors conference in New York it's called "Golden Tassies," golden for the rich margarine ingredient in the dessert shells and tassies after an old Scottish word meaning "small cup."

They are small cups of cream cheese dough with a traditional old English "Maids of Honor" filling.

GOLDEN TASSIES

2 bars (1 cup) margarine
2 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese
2 cups sifted flour

Let margarine soften in mixing bowl 1 hour at room temperature. Add cheese and work until creamy. Scrape bowl and spoon. Add flour in fourths, blending well after each addition. Work with fingers until smooth. Chill. Pinch off small pieces of dough and shape into balls about 1 1/4 inches in diameter. Put each ball into a cup of small 1 1/2-inch muffin pans and with thumb, press dough against bottom and sides, lining cup evenly with dough. (Makes four dozen.) Fill and bake at 400 degrees 15-18 minutes. Cool. Carefully remove to wire racks.

MAIDS OF HONOR FILLING

Enough for 1 1/2 dozen shells (remainder may be filled with other fillings). Mix thoroughly 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, dash salt; add 1/2 cup ground blanched almonds, 2 well beaten egg yolks, 2 tablespoons heavy cream, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind. Mix well. Fill tassies not quite full.

Trio Dish Makes Base For Supper Casserole

Just one of the nice things about tomatoes, ground beef and noodles is that they are naturals for a casserole. And a casserole is perfect for cool night suppers.

BURGER-TOMATO CASSEROLE
1 medium onion, chopped
2 tablespoons vitaminized margarine
1 pound hamburger
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon pepper
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 (8 oz.) package wide noodles
1/2 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons vitaminized

margarine
1 tablespoon flour
2 or 3 slices American cheese
Saute onion in 2 tablespoons margarine until transparent. Add hamburger, salt and pepper and cook until meat is crumbly and browned. Drain tomatoes, reserving juice. Mix pulp with meat. In the meantime, cook noodles in boiling salted water five minutes. Drain and rinse. Add 2 tablespoons margarine, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1-16 teaspoon pepper and toss until noodles are well coated. Blend tomato juice with flour and mix thoroughly with noodles. Line bottom and sides of a 2-quart greased casserole with noodles. Fill center with meat. Place cheese slices on top of meat. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes.

A WINNING TRIO FOR SUPPER CASSEROLE
Tomatoes, Ground Beef and Noodles Herald Cool Nights

Chili Powder Trick
A good dollop of chili powder added to mayonnaise adds zest to a chopped egg salad. The flavors are compatible and the chili adds zip to the blander hard-cooked egg.

A Light Cranberry Dessert To Fit the Autumn Mood

Here's a dessert that fits right in with autumn flowers and cooler weather. It's a light-as-a-feather torte filled with dates and nuts. Then a layer of tangy red cranberry sauce in the middle and on top. The sides boast a frosting of whipped cream. How's that for a melt-in-your-mouth dessert?

This torte is best when frosted just before serving time. Your guests will really be thrilled and you'll find it will be a favorite with your family, too.

CRANBERRY FESTIVAL TORTE

4 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
4 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 cup cake flour, sifted

1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

AUTUMN DESSERT
Sports Cranberries

Grease two 8-inch layer pans, line with wax paper, and grease again. Start oven at 350 degrees F.

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add $\frac{1}{2}$ the sugar and beat well. Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add remaining sugar to egg whites, beating until thoroughly mixed. Fold yellow mixture into white. Sift baking powder and flour together. Fold into egg mixture about 2 tablespoons at a time. Fold dates and nuts in lightly. Turn into layer pans. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven about 35 minutes or until cakes shrink from sides of pan and color is light brown. Remove from pans and cool.

fork and spread between layers and on top of cake. Spread sides and edge of top with whipped cream.

Here's another cranberry festival favorite... a quick and easy frozen Cranberry Creme made with autumn red fresh cranberries. Marshmallows lend sweetness, crushed pineapple makes it chunky and the whipped cream makes it really smooth. Children will love it with crisp cookies.

OLIVE-CHEESEBURGERS FOR A SNAPPY MEAL
Cheese Toasted Over Top Rounds Out Good Flavor

Olives and Cheese Bring New Life to Hamburger

Especially when there's a crowd to serve, are these Olive Cheeseburgers handy. Everyone likes cheeseburgers. So everyone's bound to love these extra special burgers prepared with monosodium glutamate for extra-meaty flavor and with stuffed olives for color and taste surprises underneath the bubbling melted Swiss cheese topping.

One who can broil a ham-burger can make these festive burgers, then take all the bows for serving something new under the sun—or moon—or porch lantern.

OLIVE CHEESEBURGERS
1 1/2 cups bread crumbs
3 tablespoons olive brine
3 tablespoons water
1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 pounds lean beef, ground
Prepared mustard
1 dozen large stuffed olives
8 slices (pound package) process Swiss cheese

Combine crumbs, olive brine, water, monosodium glutamate and pepper; mix well; add to ground beef. Form into 8 large patties; broil on 1 side about 7 minutes, with meat about 3 inches below source of heat. Turn; spread with mustard; cover with sliced olives; top each with slice of cheese. Broil 5 minutes longer, or until cheese melts and is delicately browned. Makes 8 servings.

Peanut Butter Mixing
Whip some soft peanut butter into vanilla ice cream. Refreeze and serve with chocolate sauce. Also, a big spoonful of heated mince meat does wonders for vanilla ice cream.

Hashed Brown Potatoes—A New Flavor

Fold sour cream into hashed brown potatoes just as you are ready to serve them. The result will be a new flavor treat.

Season sour cream with a bit of curry powder, or salt and ginger before adding as a garnish to cream soups.

For a simple salad dressing made with sour cream as the base; to 1/2 cup sour cream, adding a grating of pepper, 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon cider vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard. Serve this on cucumbers, cucumbers and onions, or any of the cabbage slaw combinations.

The Quickest Sundae

Sour cream, commercially prepared, may be called cultured cream, salad cream or soured cream, but whatever it is called, it is a dairy product that will open up a whole new adventure in menu planning and cooking.

SUPPLIES LIMITED—GET YOURS TODAY!

Remember, no other shortening at any price is so creamy, so digestible—and so light!

As you know—just a little difference in ingredients makes a big difference in cooking results. Snowdrift is pre-whipped just a little longer than ordinary shortenings, for easier blending. It's just a little lighter than any other shortening, for more digestible foods. And Snowdrift's ingredients are just a little costlier than any other solid shortening. That means better-tasting foods. And right now—for a limited time only—you get a 3-lb. can of Snowdrift at a saving of 7¢!

INDIVIDUAL POT ROASTS

Buy either Natur-Tender or Budget chuck, rump or sirloin butt cuts of beef. Cut meat into large, boneless pieces—one for each person. Sprinkle with salt and pepper; dredge with flour. Brown in a little hot fat and add seasonings such as sliced onion, bay leaf, thyme, or oregano. Add a small amount of liquid such as bouillon, tomato juice or water. Use only about one-half cup liquid to start with, then add more as this cooks away. Cover and cook the baby pot roasts until tender, about 2 hours. Make gravy from the drippings and serve over mashed, boiled potatoes. You can cook vegetables for the meal right in with the meat during the last hour if you like. The good meat juices will give them a wonderful flavor. Small whole carrots, onions and potato halves are best.

Fresh Peach Parfait Favorite

Here's a Fresh Peach Parfait that will command repeat performances. Alternate heaping scoopfuls of vanilla ice cream and slices of fresh peaches. Top with a generous serving of Melba Sauce — and here is how the sauce is made: Crush one 12-ounce package frozen red raspberries. Add ½ cup currant jelly and bring to a boil. Add 1½ teaspoons cornstarch mixed with one tablespoon cold water to make a smooth paste. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Strain and cool.

Special Pork Digestible for Babies

So carefully processed for a minimum of fat and fiber, Gerber's Pork can be given to babies as early as any meat! Like all of Gerber's Strained and Junior Meats, it's made from specially selected Armour cuts.

Juicy and savory and so delicious, Gerber's 7 Strained Meats have a smooth, smooth texture that little babies love. The 5 Junior Meats have the tender minced texture that tots with teeth can manage so easily.

Frozen Foods and Theories

Many theories have been advanced about the best ways to cook frozen foods, particularly frozen meats. The traditionalists have said that meat must be thawed before cooking. However, now the experts say that you should cook your meats from the solid-frozen state for better taste and better nutrition.

In general, use the same methods as for cooking fresh meats. But you'll have to increase cooking time and should always use a meat thermometer. No-thawing means greater convenience, less shrinkage and higher nutritive values. Meats cooked after thawing according to tests, contained less niacin, thiamin and riboflavin—all components of the precious vitamin B complex.

Most of these lost vitamins were lost in the drip. And just as you'd expect, the losses were greater in meats which dripped the most—in steaks thawed at room temperature and in sliced liver. Losses were greater when meats were defrosted at room temperature rather than in the refrigerator.

If you're interested in getting as much meat as possible to your table, prevent shrinkage by cooking it frozen. Differences in shrinkage between thawed and solid-frozen meats are startling.

Quickest Appetizer Is Hard To Beat

Put this one on the list for the quickest appetizer ever: Toss bite-size shredded whole wheat cereal in melted butter; sprinkle with a little garlic salt and serve hot—your guests will ask for more.

In the laboratory a steak that weighed 7 pounds and 4 ounces when it was taken from the freezer, weighed only 1 pound 8 ounces after it was thawed, and only 1 pound 3 ounces after it was cooked. It's true cooking time is longer and, naturally, you have to use more fuel. But fuel is so inexpensive compared to the cost of meat!

EVERYBODY NEEDS A DEODORANT SOAP...BUT DO ORDINARY DEODORANT SOAPS IRRITATE YOUR SKIN?

AT LAST! A deodorant soap that protects completely yet is gentle to your skin!

CREAMADE deodorant soap
Is kind to your skin because it contains rich cold cream

At last there's a deodorant soap so mild and gentle to the skin you can use it with confidence day after day. It's pure, creamy-white Creamade, the only soap that combines the most effective deodorant known with soothing, smoothing cold cream!

Creamade gives you complete protection from body odors. It contains famous hexachlorophene, the odorless, invisible substance that kills 95% of the skin bacteria that cause unpleasant body odors and many complexion troubles too. Hexachlorophene does not merely mask odors. It removes their cause. And because it clings to your skin—does not rinse or wipe away—it gives you hours of protection!

As it deodorizes, Creamade soothes your skin with rich cold cream. It helps your skin retain the wonderful natural skin oils washed away by ordinary soaps. When you use Creamade regularly, your skin stays soft, smooth and lovely!

Creamade is the soap for active moderns. It keeps you fresh even on busiest days. Get Creamade in its unique gold foil wrap next time you shop, at supermarkets and grocery stores.

MEMO TO MEN: It's just good business to use a deodorant soap. And the hexachlorophene in Creamade is the most effective deodorant known—gives you hours of sure protection.

And you'll like using Creamade. Its light floral scent is clean and fresh, not a heavy perfume. And the cold cream in Creamade makes your skin feel wonderful. Try it and see!

CREAMADE
THE ONLY DEODORANT SOAP WITH COLD CREAM TOO

Try Steaming Pot Roast Menu

Can you imagine anything more appetizing these cold days and nights than a steaming pot roast, cooked to just the right tenderness and garnished with fresh vegetables?

With beef still in plentiful, it is economical enough for every family and, for those who are watching waistlines, it's low in calories, too.

STEAMING POT ROAST

One 3- to 4-pound chuck roast
2 onions, sliced
Flour, salt and pepper
4 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 bay leaf
1½ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Rub meat well with flour, salt and pepper; brown on all sides in hot fat in large, heavy frying pan with tight-fitting cover or Dutch oven; pour off any excess fat. Spread top of beef with mustard; add onions, bay leaf, water, salt and pepper. Cover tightly; bring to boiling; reduce heat; simmer 1½ to 2 hours, or until meat is tender when pierced with two-tined fork (or bake meat covered in very slow oven 300 degrees F., about two hours). Place meat on heated platter; keep hot while making gravy.

To make gravy: Skim any excess fat from liquid in pan; blend in 2 tablespoons flour; stir in 2 cups water; cook, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens and boils 1 minute. Season to taste with salt and pepper; if desired, color rich brown with gravy flavoring. Strain gravy; spoon some around meat; pass remaining in bowl.

Here's another favorite that will serve six:

BEEF RAGOUT WITH PARSLEY DUMPLINGS

2½ pounds, boneless brisket, rump or chuck, cut into 2-inch cubes.
Flour, salt and pepper
3 tablespoons fat
2 cloves of garlic, minced
2 cups tomato juice
2 bay leaves
3 whole cloves
½ teaspoon marjoram
1 tablespoon pepper
Few sprigs of parsley

12 small white onions
1 bunch small carrots, scraped and halved

PARSLEY PUDDING

Dust meat cubes well with flour, salt and pepper placed in a paper bag. Heat fat with garlic in large heavy frying pan with tight-fitting cover or Dutch oven; drain on absorbent paper. Pour off any excess fat; return all browned meat to kettle; add tomato juice, bay leaves, whole cloves, marjoram, sugar, salt, pepper and parsley. Cover tightly; bring to boiling; reduce heat; simmer about one hour.

Add onions and carrots; continue simmering about one hour longer, or until meat and vegetables are tender. Twenty minutes before serving, spoon Parsley Dumplings mixture on top of steaming-hot ragout; cook uncovered, 10 minutes; cover; steam 10 minutes longer. To serve, spoon ragout into serving dish; spoon over heated peas; arrange dumplings around edge.

tables are tender. Twenty minutes before serving, spoon Parsley Dumplings mixture on top of steaming-hot ragout; cook uncovered, 10 minutes; cover; steam 10 minutes longer. To serve, spoon ragout into serving dish; spoon over heated peas; arrange dumplings around edge.

BUY-LINES by Nancy Sasser

New York, Nov. 4—I crown my cakes with the richest, smoothest, fudgiest frostings in the whole wide world... yet they take only 4 minutes to fix... because I use "JUNKET" QUICK FUDGE & FROSTING MIX! It's the only pre-cooked mix you can buy... the only one that makes real cake frosting that can't fail! And it really can't... for since it's pre-cooked for you, it needs no beating... no testing... never runs or grainy! "JUNKET" QUICK FUDGE & FROSTING MIX also makes the most luscious fudge candy and dessert sauces in just 4 minutes, too... in Chocolate, old-fashioned, brown sugar Penuche and Coconut that's rich with real Coconut shreds. You'll love all 3 flavors... all 3 ways!

MOST PARENTS SUFFER NIGHTMARES when their youngsters wake in the night with a tormenting cough of a cold... but not me! I just give my tiny toddlers PERTUSSIN... the natural herb cough medicine that so many family doctors recommend! That's because its herb action loosens phlegm fast, relieves coughing and lets children sleep peacefully... without narcotics or harmful drugs! PERTUSSIN tastes so good children take it readily... and it works effectively for grown-ups, too. So don't let your youngsters lie tired, fretful and unable to sleep with a wracking night cough... for their sake and your own peace of mind give them PERTUSSIN! At your Druggist's... and commended by Parents' Magazine.

YOU'LL HAVE FUN along with your guests... when you all join together popping and eating JOLLY TIME Pop Corn! Every kernel pops crisp, fluffy and delicious or your money back... and it's always hull-less with no hard centers! And JOLLY TIME is always fresh, too... for it comes sealed in air tight metal cans. Keep plenty on hand... to help you entertain a crowd or a couple.

SPARK SPECIAL DIET menus with taste-enticing CREAM OF RICE... for this same creamy-smooth rice cereal that doctors recommend for babies is perfect for people who must eat easily digested foods because of ulcers, hypertension and the like. That's because it's easier to digest than any other kind of cereal and can be served in so many ways... as a cereal, of course, as well as in soups, main dishes and desserts! CREAM OF RICE is delicious and nutritious, too... so I'd like to send you this:

FREE RECIPE BOOK Called "How to Make a Special Diet Taste Extra Special"... with 85 recipes plus 7 different restricted diets. Address Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y.

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE again... now that this season's fresh FLORIDA Grapefruit are in! They're better than ever, too... so let me tell you how to choose them. Don't worry about the color of the skin... just weigh the fruit in your hands... the heavy ones are the juicy, thin-skinned FLORIDAS! And this early fruit is the richest of all in Golden Vitamin C... one vitamin your body doesn't store and needs every day to help you build up resistance to winter ills! That's why you'll want to buy these luscious FLORIDA Grapefruit in abundance... then use the big ones for halves and salads... squeeze the small ones for tangy, low-calorie, tall drinks!

KNOW WHAT I'VE BEEN DOING... since the last time we "talked" I've been on a fixing spree... mended a chair, mounted our vacation photos and put that loose key back on the piano. And I did a perfect job quickly and easily... with the help of ELMER'S GLUE-ALL! That's because this wonderful new glue made by The Borden Company comes in a plastic squeeze bottle that ends mess and sticky fingers... while excess washes off with water. Yet it dries clear, sets fast and forms an extra-strong bond... on wood, paper, cloth or any porous material! Still ELMER'S GLUE-ALL costs only 29c and $1 at all Housewares Depts... and you know if it's Borden's, it's got to be good!

Today's Youngsters Grow
SO TRIM...SO TALL...SO FAST

"Just 14, and she's taller than Mom!"

BUILDS GLOWING
with B-VITAMINS

Why do youngsters today grow so trim, so tall, so fast? Plenty of active outdoor sports, for one thing. More important, they get a far better-balanced diet than Mom or Dad ever had, including good, nourishing foods like Merita Bread.

Today's Merita Bread has more "grow" and more "go". Its finer ingredients give a better balance of vital health-and-body-building food elements, PLUS ADDED VITAMINS AND IRON for glowing, red-blooded vitality. And Merita has more of the fine flavor and texture that have made it the South's first choice for generations.

Serve fresh Merita Bread at your house. The whole family will enjoy it.

Baked Canned Cling Peach Bread Pudding
We tasted a most delicious baked canned cling peach bread pudding recently. The custardy base was made with one egg and half cup each water and evaporated milk. 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs was mixed with this, along with a little sugar, lemon rind and juice. Four canned cling peach halves were placed in the bottom and the custard mixture on top.

IF IT'S A HEARTY MEAL YOU WANT, TRY YAMS
Team Them With Sausages and Applesauce

An Autumn Yam Dinner Is a Meal for the Hearty

Autumn Yam Dinner is a recipe you'll want to have on hand for hearty meals. Plentiful yams are teamed with sausage and apple sauce in this easy-to-prepare casserole which boasts eye and appetite appeal in addition to healthful nutrients. Plan to serve yams often during the plentiful season for meals that are nutritious and flavorful.

AUTUMN YAM DINNER
6 medium-sized yams, cooked, peeled and mashed
1 cup canned apple sauce
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
12 link sausages
1 No. 7 can sauerkraut
1. Combine yams, apple sauce, eggs, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; mix well and turn into greased 1 1/2-quart casserole. 2. Pan-fry sausages until browned. Arrange sausages over yam mixture. 3. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. 4. Heat sauerkraut to serving temperature; serve with yam casserole.

YAMS AND POTTED TONGUE
1 2-pound calf or beef tongue
Salted water
3/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped celery
3/4 cup chopped green pepper
3/4 pound mushrooms, sliced
6 medium-sized yams, cooked, peeled and sliced
1. Cook tongue in salted water, covered, until tender, about 1 1/2 hours; remove tongue and reserve 1 cup tongue liquid. Skin tongue and slice. 2. Meanwhile, melt butter or margarine; add onions and celery. 3. Cook over medium heat until vegetables are tender. 4. Arrange tongue, onion-celery mixture, mushrooms, green pepper and yams in a greased 2 1/2-quart casserole; add tongue liquid. 5. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 to 55 minutes. Serve immediately.

Spaghetti and Meat Balls

WITH TOMATO SAUCE

17-oz. or 1/2 14-oz. pkg. SKINNER Vitamin Enriched Long or Italian Style Spaghetti
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
4 tbsp. fat
1 tsp. salt
1 lb. ground beef
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
1 cup water
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. pepper
Grated Parmesan cheese
3 Stuffed olives, sliced

To 2 qts. boiling water, add 1 tsp. salt. Add spaghetti gradually, curling it around in kettle as it softens. Cook uncovered at rapid boil 15 minutes, or until tender when cut with fork against kettle. Drain. Heat fat in skillet, brown onion and garlic. Add salt to meat, form into small balls and brown in skillet. Add tomato sauce, water, Worcestershire sauce, pepper. Cover, simmer for 40 min. Pour over spaghetti and sprinkle with grated cheese. Subtle Cole Slaw Easy With Garlic

For cole slaw with a fascinating and subtle touch of garlic mix three cups of finely cut cabbage with this easy "shake up" dressing. Measure 1/4 cup salad oil, 1/4 cup evaporated milk, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 small clove garlic, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/16 teaspoon pepper into a half pint jar. Cover tightly, shake vigorously for about a minute and then chill. Don't forget to remove the garlic clove before using! Makes 4 servings

Ice Cream Topping

Serve this elegant topping over ice cream. Take 1/4 cup canned cling peach slices and dice. Combine with 1/4 cup honey and 2 tablespoons raspberry jam, and cook and stir until mixture thickens. Chill and serve over the ice cream.

LEMON PIE AND TEA IS AN OLD FAVORITE TEAM
Make the Pie This Way for Variety and Taste Delight

Old Favorite Tea and Pie

Lemon pie and tea are old familiar favorites, but here's something new, lemon cheese squares made with a new lemon pie filling.

LEMON CHEESE SQUARES
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup melted margarine
1 package lemon pie filling
1/4 cup sugar
2 1/4 cups cold water
1 slightly beaten egg
1/4 cup margarine
1 cup (8 ounces) creamed cottage cheese, sieved

Combine graham crackers, the 1/4 cup sugar, and the 1/4 cup melted margarine. Firmly press one-half of the crumb mixture into bottom of a 10x6x2-inch pan. Chill in refrigerator until ready to use. Empty contents of lemon pie filling into a saucepan. Mix in the 1/4 cup sugar. Add water and egg gradually, stirring to keep mixture smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils up once and capsule dissolves. Remove from heat. Stir in the 1/4 cup margarine.

German Apple Pancake Change

For a change, serve German apple pancakes for Sunday night supper. Use your favorite recipe for puff pancakes, and add 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon to the flour and 1 cup finely chopped pared apples to the batter before cooking on the built-in griddle of your gas range. These measurements are proportional for a batch of eight 4-inch pancakes, so if you intend to make double the quantity, increase the amounts of cinnamon and chopped apples to correspond.

HOT MUFFINS
Filled With Dates

Muffins— Always Are Winners!

FLUFFY DATE MUFFINS
1 cup fresh dates
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 cup granulated sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/4 cup shortening
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 egg
1 cup buttermilk

TOPPING:
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
Pit and slice dates into medium-sized pieces. Sift flour with sugar, baking powder, salt and soda. Cut in shortening. Add rind and dates. Beat egg slightly and combine with buttermilk. Blend into first mixture, mixing only until all of flour is moistened. Spoon into greased muffin pans and sprinkle with blended topping ingredients. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 12 (3-inch) muffins.

Flavored Gelatin Tip
Flavored gelatin is one for a first dessert on baby's diet. Make it more nutritious by using apricot, pear or peach whole fruit nectar as part of the liquid.
